NOT 'HAWK' OR 'DOVE'

Shirley an 'Owl'

By FRANK LAPIERRE
Shirley Temple Black denied reports she is a "hawk" on the Vietnam War as reported in worldwide news media.

"Truth of the matter is, I'm neither a hawk nor a dove — I'm an owl," the former Hollywood starlet confessed during lunch last week.

The pert brunette, a candidate in the upcoming 11th Congressional race here, said an owl "is a wise bird who listens a lot and thinks about things" before making a move.

Still bubbling over with energy after walking the Daly City precincts for hours Saturday morning in an effort to "get out the vote," Mrs. Black admitted she didn't know "all there is to know about the Vietnam War."

"I'm not a military expert — I'm a mother of three children who feels we are relying too much on (Defense Secretary) McNamara and not enough on our Joint Chiefs of Staff in the present (Vietnam) crisis."

"I feel we must support our men who are in Vietnam now and honor those who died in the cause of keeping Communism from taking over all of Asia," she explained.

Mrs. Black, the only woman candidate in a field of 13 candidates running for the seat vacated by the death of J. Arthur Younger, had some strong opinions on the present system of federal government spending and taxes.

"We should establish priority projects and, in some cases, cutback spending... for example in federal aid to education. If State and local governments can't take care of the matter, then the federal government should offer aid, with complete autonomy," she said.

Rattling off statistics to support her claims of misspending in higher government, Mrs. Black said the tax burden was becoming "increasingly harder on the taxpayer."

"Money isn't the answer, it's the way it's spent," she explained. "Look at Detroit where the federal government poured in millions of dollars. It didn't work."

"We can't have all these glorious projects that aren't working. The money should be appropriated for projects at the (grass roots) level of government — the state, county and city," she said.

"These tax boosts are really caused by administrative deficits on the local scene. If the federal government would appropriate necessary funds for various programs — with no strings attached — instead of the present procedure, we wouldn't have this problem," Mrs. Black said.

Bigger Jump For Citizens Outside D.C.

Daly City residents can expect a sizeable hike in garbage collection rates if the council decides to go along with recommendations made by city manager Edward Frank.

While the Daly City Scavenger Company requested, and will likely get a 20 cent increase in collection rates for areas within the city, Frank asked that an additional five cent surcharge be tacked onto the hike for what he called "major dump maintenance."

The new rates, if approved at next Monday's regular council meeting, would set over-all garbage collection rates at $1.75 for each 40 gallon container.

Residents of Daly City are also allowed to dispose of grass clippings and similar yard maintenance debris.

Even harder hit with the new rates will be those areas outside Daly City serviced by the scavengers.

Present collection rates outside the city are $1.65. This figure would be raised to $2.00 — a 35 cent increase coupled with the five cent surcharge.

Frank said the surcharge would be kept in a special fund and would "only be used to provide major maintenance at the dump site," located adjacent to Mussel Rock.

Signup Deadline For Elections Is Tomorrow

Daly City clerk Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf announced today her offices would be open in the Civic Center on September 21 — the final day of registration for the upcoming special election — from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Ohlendorf said if a person has recently moved since the last general election or reached 21 years old, they must register (or re-register) in order to become eligible to vote on Tuesday, November 14.

Deputies have set up special convenient registration points for Wednesday (today) and Thursday from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the following locations:

Westlake Mall, South Mayfair Avenue.
Skyline Plaza Shopping Center, Westmoor and Southgate avenues.
Mayfair Shopping Center, Junipero Serra Boulevard at 87th Street.

Firm Asks A Powder Haul Permit

The Pimbo Construction Company Monday applied for permission to haul and store 20,000 pounds of blasting powder for a "reclamation, fill and grading" project in the South San Francisco Industrial Park.

In applying for the blasting permit, a spokesman for the firm said it would be impossible to determine the exact amount of powder needed for the job "before the blasting is actually undertaken."

Councilmen expressed reservations about issuing the permit for the large amount of explosives, and instructed Public Works Director Louis Goss to "clear the matter with the fire department" before issuing the permit.

The company spokesman said 20,000 pounds is "the usual shipment and sale quantity" for explosives, and is the maximum amount permitted under city ordinances.

The powder will be stored in steel magazines facing the bay in the industrial area during the construction project.

Drug Arrest

A young Pacifica man was arrested Sunday night and charged with possession of narcotics paraphernalia after police discovered 17 hypodermic kits in his automobile.

Officers said Joseph Balenzuela, 20, of 1429 Crespi Drive, was arrested shortly before midnight when patrolmen searched his car in the area of the Sharp Park School.

BART Completion --Delay of a Year

The Bay Area Rapid Transit District will complete the entire 75-mile system around the Bay Area before any trains are scheduled to run over its tracks.

In revealing this decision last week, BARTD's Board of Directors noted completion of the system — which includes the yet-to-be designed Daly City station — may be delayed up to one year.

The rapid transit district's engineering committee had recommended construction of a "modified" 57-mile system because of a projected $152 million deficit in available funds.

By completing a curtailed system and chopping off several stations (mainly in the East Bay) BARTD would have had "an operable, revenue-producing system" on schedule.

In order to pay off outstanding bonds, BARTD must have a source of revenue or the projected deficit will grow even larger, a spokesman indicated.

The on again, off again plans for construction of a station at Daly City — the terminus of the system — had been the subject of much concern by local officials.

Daly City is presently in the midst of formulating a General Plan and the station enters prominently in development of that area.

Although the city has no say in the design or type of station to be constructed on a 13-acre tract adjacent to the new Junipero Serra Freeway, BARTD staff members were expected to discuss surrounding traffic problems with the city.

Most BARTD directors expect "only a six months delay" in completion of the system throughout the Bay Area, but failed to outline any new plans for obtaining the necessary funds. (Please See Page 2, Column 3)

It's Tomorrow

Pacifica Election Filing Deadline

Four Pacificans had filed for the city council vacancy created last month when James Fox resigned and five others had taken out candidacy papers by Tuesday afternoon.

The special election will be held November 14.

Already officially in the race are Daniel Modena of 816 Bower Road, Richard Passafiume of 554 Manor Drive, Edward Libonati of 267 Edgewood Drive, and Mrs. Margaret Moseley of 8 Durant Court.

Obtaining candidacy papers and expected to file prior to Thursday's deadline have been five others, Ray Logan of 412 Fourth Avenue, George Edsall of 220 Bonita, Mrs. Ruth Horne of 249 Gateway Drive, Tony Baeso of 1135 Banyon Way and Wally Sharp of 25 Alviso Court.

Fox, a longtime member of the city council, recently sold his hardware store, resigned his municipal post and moved to Redding.

Rather than appoint a successor, other members of the council decided to stage a special election, in conjunction with the balloting for a congressional successor to the late Arthur J. Younger in San Mateo County.

Councilmen Deny Appeal

South San Francisco councilmen overruled an appeal from the Industrial Park Association Monday night, and upheld a planning commission decision granting a variance allowing the Airland Freight Co. to locate doors on the street side of its building in the industrial park.

Neighboring firms had appealed the planning commission decision on "esthetic grounds."

In other action Monday, the council overruled the planning commission's decision to deny a use permit for a service station at the northwest corner of Westborough and Gellert Boulevards in the Westborough Community, and granted the permit "with the usual conditions."

Poverty Project Rapped

The $30,000 summer program in which teen-agers conducted a door-to-door survey of economic conditions in the county's so-called poverty areas was soundly criticized last week before the Human Resources Commission.

Patricia Dimas, director of the Pacifica Community Action Council, charged that a maximum work day was three hours and that some youths spent as little as 25 minutes working in any one day.

Terming the program, financed by Office of Economic Opportunity funds, a "big dud," Mrs. Dimas stated that "this is not any way to train children."

She said that there was virtually no work done on Fridays, which was payday, and that the teen-agers would "sit and wait for their pay checks."

George Riley, acting director of the Human Resources Commission, stated that funds for the project became available at "the last minute" and indicated there just wasn't time to set up a satisfactory program.

"I had a number of reservations and knew there would be problems," he stated.

Don Wright, a member of the Redwood City Community Action Council, charged that data gathered from the survey has been "pigeon-holed."

He also charged that on one occasion two bus loads of survey members went on a picnic, while an "entertainer followed in a Rolls Royce."

Admitting that the survey was a "crash" program, HRC member Harry Bremont stated that this nevertheless was "no excuse for inefficiency."

Wright spoke hopefully for next summer, stating there would be time for submitting programs for the "benefit of the whole community."

Harold B. Brooks Jr., director of the county survey, submitted a six-page report on the project in which Barry A. Goodfield, Sonoma State College psychology instructor, stated he felt members of the survey teams in the long run will develop a "continued interest in civic affairs and a continued desire to be involved in further projects of this nature."

Goodfield further stated that team members "will find that the experience they gained in communicating with people from varied backgrounds helpful in qualifying and obtaining future employment."

He said he felt that the HRC "has made a positive contribution to both the youth they employed and the community at large." Goodfield further stated that a long-range program and "not short term projects" is needed "if meaningful communication is to be established."

Airport Expansion To Bring New Problems

Two speakers told the Airport Luncheon Club and the Airport Junior Chamber of Commerce last week that airports must be expanded to meet the needs of the future, but one expert said expansion would create more problems.

Clyde Barnett, state director of aviation, and William Bramstedt, vice president of Standard Oil, agreed that expansion is needed.

Bramstedt was speaking to a joint session of the two groups, in favor of voting "yes" in San Francisco's upcoming $98,000,000 bond election. A show of hands indicated that only a half-dozen of the 60 men present, could vote in that election at all.

Nevertheless, Bramstedt said, they could tell their friends, employees, and employers, how badly the money is needed for airport expansion.

Barnett fully agreed that the expansion is necessary, but solutions to today's problems will only lead to new ones.

There are answers to handling huge numbers of passengers who will be using the super-jets, solutions to the problems of automobile traffic, improvements in baggage handling, better freight service, but the answers may be more overwhelming than today's questions, he said.

Air taxis and short distance air service may provide an answer to the question of "what to do about autos at airports," but they will only create a new one, "what to do about the new craft," said Barnett.

Barnett, director of Aviation of the State of California, told the gathering that the problems of handling 500 to 600 passengers at a time from the new superjets "will be solved," but

Slope Project In S.S.F. Postponed

A "slope stabilization" project in the Buri Buri community in South San Francisco was postponed until next year Monday, after Mayor Patrick Ahearn and councilmen noted the single bid for a contract on the project was 50 per cent above the city engineer's estimate.

The one bid, from the Joseph Caplan Co., called for a contract price of $45,462.

City Engineer Louis Goss and the city's public works department staff had estimated the project cost at $29,777.

"The city staff had estimated cost of fill material on the project at five dollars per cubic yard, but Caplan said the fill would cost at least $20 per yard, because the work would have to be done by hand due to the condition of the slope."

Councilmen decided to delay the project until next year after Goss stated it is too late to advertise for bids again, "because of the approaching rainy season."

called "financial blundering," Mrs. Black said "President Johnson is offering us a guns and butter deal, but it looks like we'll have to satisfy ourselves with margarine instead."

Although flattered by international press coverage of her campaign (which is scheduled to officially get underway this week) she hoped that coverage would not hurt her on the local scene.

"After all, I'm interested primarily in San Mateo County voters — not Sweden, Italy, France and other countries that have contacted me," Mrs. Black said.

Asked if statements made by fellow Republican candidate Bob Barry, regarding equal time on television if any of Mrs. Black's old movies are shown were acceptable to her, the former child star replied:

"Certainly, if he has any old movies to show on television."

Mrs. Black said she is a Republican-Independent.

"That is to say, I am a Republican, but I am completely independent and owe nothing to anyone."

She said, "The only money I have spent so far out of my own pocket is for gasoline."

Was she just a "concerned housewife" entering this congressional race?

"Absolutely not! I have been very active for years on a variety of local, county and state committees," she said. "The workings of all levels of government are certainly not new to me. I am concerned, naturally, but not just a concerned housewife without experience."

BART Completion Delay— Will Build Entire System

funds needed to make up the ever-growing deficit.

A move last month to raise tolls on the Oakland-Bay bridge by ten cents, to be diverted to BARTD use, was defeated by the Legislature, leaving BARTD with few alternatives on meeting its financial commitments, a spokesman noted.

The BARTD resolution came as little surprise to most attending the directors meeting.

A majority of directors indicated several weeks ago they favored holding up the actual operation of the system (except for a short test track in the East Bay) until the entire system was finished.

General Manager B. R. Stokes told the directors that even if the necessary funds are made available by this winter, East Bay trains will probably not run until the middle of 1970 — instead of in late 1969 as previously scheduled. The East Bay lines are to be the first phase of the system to go into operation.

Daly City officials had expected the terminus station to open about a year after the East Bay lines.

A BARTD staff member said yesterday plans for the Daly City station still had not been completed and could not volunteer a date when they would be ready for consideration.

COMPLETION of the Canterbury Tot Lot in the Serramonte tract in Daly City was marked with a public ribbon-cutting Saturday. The facility is the first complete park facility constructed under Daly City's Urban Beautification program. The Suburban Realty Company, an organization made up of the Crocker Development Company and Gellert Brothers, donated the parcel. Expansion Of Airport —Problems that the airlines may find themselves overwhelmed with the difficulties of ground traffic.

"The auto is the villain of the air industry," he said.

Barnett illustrated his point by describing the success of a 21-mile airline operating at Los Angeles. The air-taxi service has ten flights a day, he said, because its customers would rather park their cars at Fullerton, where parking is available and free, than drive to L. A. International where parking is expensive and frequently not available.

California must improve its feeder airlines service too, he said, and will see a boom in this type of business with the increasing availability of short take-off and vertical take-off aircraft.

But the increasing short-range business will merely add to the problems of passenger handling at the "hub" terminals as well as increase the air traffic around major airfields.

Barnett said there would be great need for expanding existing airfields such as San Carlos and Palo Alto, as well as San Francisco, San Jose, and Oakland, and that more airports will soon need to be created.

"As it is," he said, "we may get to the moon before the aviation industry can get us to Milpitas."

Two Pacifica youths were arrested on charges of possession of marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia last week after a police officer searched their automobile on Higgins Road.

Kenneth E. Doeringhaus and Charles D. Adams, both 18, were arrested about 10:30 p.m. when police discovered a package containing a small quantity of marijuana and a hypodermic needle in the car.

ently in the City Engineering Department) would define exactly what was meant by "major maintenance" at the dump and how the money — which would amount to some $18,000 the first year — would be spent in performing this maintenance.

City engineer Arthur Reschke said one of the first major maintenance projects to be undertaken at the dump site, which is presently under fire from the Regional Water Pollution Control Board for alleged contamination of coastal waters, would be construction of a rock slope wall along the shoreline to protect the "old" dump.

The "new" dump is on considerably higher ground and relatively unaffected by wave action along the beach.

This "wave action" has, in some cases, undermined the older dump and washed debris out to sea, the Water Pollution Board has accused.

Richard Dwyer, accountant for the scavenger firm and a member of the Daly City Planning Commission, said the increase was necessitated by the last collection rate hike some three years ago.

"We also need, badly, new equipment and have recently negotiated a new wage schedule with employees," Dwyer told a study session of the council Monday night.

The total increase would amount to more than $60,000 annually. And this figure was expected to grow with the population.

In a breakdown of how the additional funds would be spent, Dwyer said $30,000 would go for improvements at the dump site (a drainage system); $10,000 for supplies needed for the operation of the company.

The $30,000 drainage line would be a "one shot" item and the money would be used in future years to replace needed equipment, Dwyer said.

In past years, the scavengers have used money earmarked for new equipment to maintain the dump to Water Pollution Board standards, the council was told.

"Now we don't have any more money and we need new equipment — along with paying for this drainage system," Dwyer said.

Asked how long the new wage schedule would be in effect, Dwyer answered:

"We negotiated for only three years. After that it looks like we'll have to start our talks all over again."

The expected rise in population in the Daly City area would not necessarily mean higher profits for the company, Dwyer pointed out.

"There is a point of diminishing returns," he said. "The more people, the more equipment needed to collect the garbage."

Councilman Frank Pacelli said he thought the county should participate "to some extent" in the maintenance costs of the dump "after all we provide a service to some sections in the county."

College Student Gridiron Winner

A student at C.S.M. is the first week's winner in the Times-Football Contest.

Ken Coats, 1532 F Day Ave., San Mateo, won first prize of two tickets to the California-Stanford Big Game by naming 14 of 15 winners correctly and giving the nearest estimate of the net yards made by the 49'ers in their game against Minnesota last Sunday.

The other contestants who picked 14 winners were D. B. Gibbs and Phil Murray of San Mateo, Jack Orovits of Daly City, and C. A. Guerrero of Pacifica. There were 32 other entries that picked 13 winners.

Since there was not a cash winner, this week's prize is $100, plus $50 bonus for being a home delivered subscriber to The Times. Fill out the entry blank out now and mail it before the Thursday night deadline.

Nine Teenagers Are Arrested In Daly City Burglary Series

Arrests of teenagers released to parents or sent to Hillcrest Youth Guidance Center for their parts in a series of local burglaries. Most of the burglaries have occurred during the past ten months in the St. Francis Heights area of the city. Since the first of the year some 45 burglaries have been reported in this area alone, police said.

In most cases cash was stolen. Not all of the burglaries, however, have been traced to the teenagers in custody, detective Roger Austin said.

The arrest of a youth last week subsequently led to the arrest of others, he said.

"We are still in the midst of this investigation with more arrests expected shortly," Austin explained.

Austin said his office "hopes to clear up" as many of the reported burglaries as possible during the investigation.

Some of the youths arrested admitted using the stolen money to purchase marijuana and other dangerous drugs, Austin said.

Austin pointed out that the boys "were definitely not part of a teen-age gang and did not, for the most part, work together in these burglaries."

The youths were not identified by police because the matter is still under investigation and further arrests were expected, police said.

Youth Is Hurt In Smashup

Paul J. Montes, 23-year-old warehouseman of 202 Junipero Serra Avenue, South San Francisco, was seriously injured Saturday night when his car crashed into a concrete pillar beneath the San Bruno overpass on Bayshore Freeway.

Witnesses told highway patrolmen that Montes was driving northbound at about 65 to 70 miles an hour when his car suddenly veered off the roadway and struck the pillar head-on.

Montes was taken unconscious to Peninsula Hospital and officers have been unable to interview him to find out what went wrong.

He was listed Monday as in "poor condition" with multiple fractures and a head injury.

New Record In Alcohol Consumption

A South San Francisco man who died of alcohol poisoning September 9 established a new county record on the blood-alcohol charts, Coroner Paul B. Jensen reported today.

Jensen said the victim, Benjamin Henry Conklin, 50, of 505 Cypress Avenue, had a blood-alcohol reading of .60 on the scale on which .15 is considered legal evidence of drunkenness.

Jensen's records show the previous high reading was .55, which was established by another South San Francisco man who, after being kicked out of a bar, bought a bottle of whiskey and drank it in his car in one sitting.

The details of Conklin's alcoholic consumption are not known, Jensen said. The only evidence in the case was an empty whiskey bottle in his hotel room, where he was found sprawled across his bed.

Jensen said Conklin's death was apparently accidental, caused by "acute ethanol toxicity."

On the blood-alcohol scale, a reading of .08 to .23 usually causes emotional instability, .18 to .34 confusion, .27 to .44 stupor, .35 to .53 coma, and anything .44 or over usually causes death.

Cat Burglar In Drug Store

A "cat burglar" dropped through a skylight in the roof of the Daly City Drug Store, 6331 Mission Street, and stole more than $200 in cash and an undisclosed amount of merchandise, Daly City police report.

No drugs were involved in the theft, police said.

Information, Referral Center Director Named

The Rev. Howard Bryant, pastor of the Second Baptist Church of Daly City, has been named Executive Director of the new Daly City Information and Referral Center.

The Center will be opened at 8 a.m. Wednesday at 6634 Mission Street, where the phased-out summer Youth Employment Center was located.

Rev. Bryant was selected by a five-member personnel committee of the referral center's 15-person board of directors.

The North County Mektal Health Center will serve as the delegate agency, responsible in conjunction with the San Mateo County Human Resources' Commission and the newly formed Board of Directors of the Information and Referral Center for the proper operation of the program.

Chairman of the Board of Directors is Mrs. Marion Shelton.

Other members are: Michael Orlich, Elijah Randolph, Albert Jenkins, Mrs. Henry Monares, Mrs. Betty Comings, Miss Charlotte Barron, Mrs. Mary Ann Freiberg, Edward Eastman, Rudie Tretten, Miss Betsy Blom, David Rowe, Dr. Larry Shephard, Michael Miller, and Julius Castalag. Dr. Howard Guenzvitz is ex-officio member.

Function of the center includes distribution of information relative to employment, community services and educational opportunities; working with others to develop in youth the ability to get and hold a job; encouragement of youth to continue their education; adding the development of employment opportunities in the Daly City Area; stimulation of interest in and encouragement of recreation programs within the target area.

The Directors hope to work on a basis of equality with the citizens of the area to encourage their faith in their own ability to succeed, in addition to coordinating programs of agencies providing services for the citizens of the target area.

Documentation and demonstration of the unmet needs of the community and working toward the development of programs to meet these needs of other projects.

An open house will be held September 20 from 1 p.m. through 8 p.m.

New County Service Area Ban Is Asked by Group

Members of the county's Local Agency Formation Commission last week asked county supervisors to create no more "county service area" unless they are first approved by the commission. The action could mean annexation of a 272-acre industrial park of "think factories" to San Mateo in the near future.

The vote, which included yes votes by two supervisor members of LAFCO, 1 s. Jean Fassler and William M. Werder, came after B. Sherman Coffman, executive officer of the commission, which rules on all annexations, reported that it might be better to have a proposed new 272-acre county service area south of the Laurelwood area in San Mateo and north of Ralston Avenue in Belmont annexed to either one of the two cities.

Creation of the new service area has been proposed by the Cargus Corporation, and was scheduled to come before the board of supervisors on November 19. Coffman said the service area has been proposed to serve a new "high level industrial area" such as Stanford Park which will contain think factories. But, Coffman noted, a 55-acre annexation of land west of Laurelwood to San Mateo will come before the commission at its regular meeting next week. And this will bring San Mateo's boundaries so close to the proposed service area that the area will be contiguous to San Mateo, he said.

The purpose of setting up a service area in unincorporated areas is to provide municipal services such as police and fire protection, flood control and sewage disposal, Coffman explained.

Commissioner Emory L. Morris of San Mateo urged that the agency "take a strong stand" that the area "go into one city or the other. County service areas do not accomplish anything."

Werder said that it is not the state division of forestry's cup of "a" to provide structural fire protection, and Mrs. Jerry Wolff, the county's planning department's liaison officer to the commission, pointed out that development of an industrial area might mean construction of multi-story buildings, which the forestry division is unequipped to protect. Normally, the state division would provide fire protection; the area.

Coffman, in an answer from Commissioner William R. Lawson as to why the development company was asking creation of the service area, answered there were two arguments:

One, that it is not economically feasible to annex to either city, and two,

They ... send out a prospectus that they can provide municipal services.

Werder said that while county service areas frequently provide useful services where they are unable to annex to a city, Burlingame Hills, a service area, probably would have been annexed long ago to Burlingame if it had been denied such services as fire protection.

"We all recognize the inherent dangers of setting up a county service area when the area eventually is going into a city," Mrs. Fassler asserted. "In the past, it has been the easy way out."

On a motion by Morris, the commission unanimously voted to "call upon" supervisors to form no more service areas unless they are first referred to LAFCO.

Mrs. Fassler and Werder agreed that Coffman, an administrative analyst in Stallings' office, should be appointed to the post permanently. Commissioners argued briefly whether Coffman should submit recommendations with his reports and finally voted he should, with Lawson abstaining.

Pilot Pre-School Project

JAMES CASH PENNEY, founder of the nationwide chain of J. C. Penney stores, will observe his ninety-second birthday Saturday. He is shown here with Mrs. Penney on a recent visit to one of the company's Tucson, Ariz. units. He holds a cattleman's hat, not only symbolic of the western origins of the chain of stores but also one of his favorite styles. One of the founder's greatest pleasures during a store visit is to personally wait on a customer or two.

'Hometown Effort' At El Camino High

A "Home-Town Effort" has helped develop into what could be the most complex construction since the building of the school itself is now going on at El Camino High School in South San Francisco.

The physical education department has been after a system by which they can train their students on isometrics and develop coordination and strength through an extended program of physical fitness.

But since the school did not qualify for federal aid in obtaining such a complex, football coach Bob Sexton did the next best thing. He started a "home-town" effort so the school could build the area itself. The land was there outside the boys' gymnasium and so was the manpower, students and faculty members. All that was needed were sponsors.

"I cannot believe the good fortune we have had from business and merchants and just anybody were asked to donate a little something for our project," Sexton said. "No one has refused us and we can't be happier with the results."

From the drawing boards to the actual construction, this project was confined to El Camino High School and its members. Mechanical drawing instructor Bill Jones and his class provided the plans and specifications for the area. Dale Smith's welding classes did all the cutting and bending of the metalwork prior to placing the product in place. Bill Moy's construction class handled the placement of the equipment.

Eventually the area will also include a few added extras for rings and mazes, all designed to get the greatest amount of use out of the smallest area.

"I can't begin to thank the people around the area enough for their support," Sexton added.

"With their help this system hasn't cost the school district a dime. We hope we can receive

next year when we hope to bring this project to its completion."

A pilot program for preschoolers, with a minimal cost to the South San Francisco Unified School District, might eventually eliminate the junior primary grade, continuation high school, and greatly reduce the number of drop-outs.

Del Bechtold, education specialist with the SSFUSD Special Services, was the project director for the School Readiness Screening. The program, an educational approach to predict children who will have difficulties was held at Ponderosa School this summer.

Principal Bernard Mallarino school was selected for the pioneer program for two reasons. Mallarino has shown interest in the program since John Paizis started his study over six years ago in Santa Cruz. Secondly, as a small school, Ponderosa's size was conducive to the project.

Educational specialist participating included Mrs. Echo Allen, department head speech and hearing; Bill McDonald, school psychologist; Miss Mae Evans, elementary curriculum consultant; Mrs. Anita Foss, coordinator of health services; Mrs. Judy Brown, Ponderosa kindergarten teacher; and Director Bechtold.

P-TA volunteers were Mrs. Lorraine Cooper, greeter; and Mmes. Lucy Del Grande, traffic manager; Patricia Mooney and Nancy Bechtold, play table supervisors.

Briefly, the objectives of the program are a sensitive meeting of the individual educational needs of all students and prevention of a "pattern of failure." The evaluation procedure involves the child and his mother. They are seen successively by a team of curriculum consultants, a nurse, speech therapist and psychologist. The total evaluation requires approximately 30 minutes per child.

Following the screening, team member meet and review their findings. They then make decisions regarding nursery school recommendations for some children and formulate recommendations to both teachers and parents for others.

Reports include each child's cumulative record of developmental readiness, personality disposition, adaptive behavior, mother-child relationship, knowledge and understanding of environment, probable adjustment status in kindergarten and recommendations to the teachers, relative to the prospective pupil's learning and emotional needs. What would happen if a child is not recommended as ready to enroll in kindergarten? Director Bechtold says, "There is no way of knowing." He stressed that the ultimate decision is left to the discretion of the parent. "There is no arm twisting," he emphasized, "only a parent conference with facts and recommendations."

Parents have been most cooperative, Mr. Bechtold stated. Letters were sent telling of the program and requesting parents phone for a screening appointment. The response was 100 percent, according to Mrs. Joan Cerini, school secretary.

Principals in other local elementary schools have also made inquiries regarding the progress of the program. Mrs. Cooper related how a parent stopped her in a supermarket to express interest in the project and to lament, "I wish the program had been available for my older child."

Most airlines advertise "flights." But most people don't hire an entire airliner for a simple trip between San Francisco and the Orange County/Disneyland Area. Just a Lotta Sweat!

ALL THIS TALK about California falling apart and its all San Andreas' fault, is just a lotta sweat over nothing, famed earthquake expert Lloyd Cuff told us this week. He qualified his remarks by emphasizing the fact that building foundations must be built to withstand the shock. A home standing on an improper foundation 20 miles from the fault zone might suffer more damage than a high-rise next to the fault. Builders must recognize this and construct accordingly, he warned. By the way: Landslides during quakes are the biggest danger, the expert warned.

indication that Daly City is considered undeveloped?" Notatall, notatall

ELECTION DEPARTMENT — The D.C. Rotary Club held a "Straw Ballot" at their luncheon last week. The results were startling. First place with 11 votes was Earl Whitmore; second place with seven was Shirley Temple Black; and THIRD PLACE WITH SIX was accountant Al Belotz. If your wondering about the rest of the runners, call and we'll relay the sad news.

FLASHY FLASH: Republican Patsy Drain IS NOT working on the Shirley Temple Black campaign. She's working for Earl Whitmore — and nobody else. Patsy says the rumors started after she fell ill a couple of weeks ago and had to slow down her campaigning for Whitmore.

SORRY ABOUT THAT — At last we get a chance to change the odds. Harvey's Resort Hotel at South Lake Tahoe (As if you didn't know where it was) rang up three lemons this week as far as attorney Dave Friedenberg is concerned. Harveys sent out some rather attractive five year calendars for distribution to the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce complete with a "Dates to Remember" section. Only trouble is, if you follow those dates you'll be celebrating Jewish New Year and Yom Kippur a week off schedule. According to Harvey's New Year falls on October 1 and Yom Kippur on October 10 — but Dave tells us the correct dates are the 5th and 14th. Looks like there'll be a lot of 'plaining to do over the next five years.

WATCH YOUR GARBAGE rate grow with Daly City. Officials aren't saying just how much, but citizens can expect somewhere in the neighborhood of 15 cents monthly.

AND SPEAKING OF D.C., we "found" where that request for construction of a car wash, submitted by Mario Caprinini and Ross Schendel is — pigeonholed in city attorney Albert Polonsky's office. The pair now own a car wash on Sullivan Avenue and several months ago filed suit against another car wash built on a C-1 zoned lot at the corner of Market and Hillside. Polonsky says he has to investigate all aspects of the application for the new car wash before forwarding it on to other city agencies. How long the "investigation" will take was still in doubt.

D.C. COUNCILMAN FRANK PACELLI, talking last week to the D.C. Lions Club, outlined plans for development of the city. After the informative talk he was asked: Is this an

Of Bloodshed And Boredom

It's not surprising the Chicago police and city fathers didn't want "The St. Valentine's Day Massacre" premiered in their city. It's very uncomplimentary and might stir up too many old wounds, emotional and political.

If we can believe that the trend in films is to satisfy the public's demand for violence (as movie makers tell us), this one should satiate all concerned. There is more than enough violence, bloodshed, beatings, cold-blooded murders, knifing, machine gunning and slapping around.

As a documentary on the mass killing of seven of Bugsy Moran's henchmen in a North Side garage, it rings with authenticity. The fashions, the shiny cars, and the street locations of that infamous year of 1929 still remembered by many, is interesting. But few who lived through that era will grant Jason Robards any praise for his caricatured posturing of gangster czar Al Capone. Putting a cigar into his mouth, shouting and bullying everyone in his employ and acting, the greasy, egotistical, insincere killer with a swaggering bravado is all Hollywood fraud if they're really striving to be honest about the event.

Except for Robards, the rest of the underworld characters fit the descriptions established in fact and producer-director Roger Corman's nonglamorization of the lawless and corrupt battles between vice bosses over the division of territory is commendable.

Clint Ritchie is Killer Jack McGurn and Ralph Meeker as Bugsy Moran, with a brief but succinct bedroom fight involving Jean Hale who gets a "dagwood" sandwich shoved into her face, capture the flavor of the period film and give their roles a flesh and blood quality. Most of the participants in this terrible blood bath of uncontrollable tempers and egos are little more than pawns in the hands of their leaders. A narrative threads the events leading up to the massacre together and gives a post-mortem on the survivors.

If the movie were the pipe dream of a script writer's sick but fertile imagination it couldn't be more grisly or shocking than what history records as the truth. Terrible, maybe but as a recounting of yesterday's headlines, the movie, for all its bloodshed, clarifies a lot of misconceptions about the massacre without magnifying its details into a saccharine expose of the twenties, all glittery and carefree.

At the time I screened, "Massacre" I thought I'd had my fill of gore and mutilated bodies: but I hadn't yet seen "Point Blank." It takes a strong stomach to attend movies these days.

"THE CHELSEA GIRLS," currently at the Presidio Theater is the first underground movie to emerge above ground in the guise of a "respectable" film.

Andy Warhol, a real person in an unreal world, has long been acknowledged as king of the underground movie movement and as big a "con artist" as ever the viewing public lowered itself to behold.

His three-and-one-half hour excursion into the purple world of drugs and homosexuality which has been made available to the general public without benefit of a membership card for a midnight-Saturday-only viewing is the dullest "put on" I've ever encountered.

For many it will be a revelation, an expose of a segment of society considered fringe, but for those who believe its publicity as being a "dirty" film, they'll be disappointed at interminable build-ups that never materialize.

The camera leads the viewer up the titillating path of drug addiction and perversion within a psychedelic framework, but the path never ends and 45 minute examinations of a girl combing her hair, or trimming her bangs, or a boy touching his skin neither fires one's imagination or satisfies one's curiosity.

With KQED television going to color, you can see the same thing in your living room. It's a far less sexy film, than better acted, better photographed and better edited films coming out of Hollywood and Europe every week. There may be a voyeur's curiosity in the fact that all the people are real residents of the actors. But if lesbians and homosexuals are anything to look at, Chelsea Hotel in Greenwich Village, New York and not paid there are plenty of them on San Francisco streets without sitting through a painfully boring, interminable movie and paying for it besides.

FILE AND FORGET — Sen. Richard Dolwig in a letter to Highwayman Alan Hart thought it was okay to put up a sign displaying local civic organizations on an area adjacent to the new Junipera Serra Freeway. Hart's department had killed the suggestion when it was brought up previously by the D.C. chamber. Opening of four mile section of Junipera Serra Freeway to Westborough Boulevard slated for September 27 — Toto's Second Annual Invitational Golf Tournament to be held on September 26. Don't get the dates mixed up and bring your clubs to the freeway opening, one city official warned.

ANOTHER OVERPASS — Someone (we dare not mention) is now suggesting a pedestrian overcrossing be built across Market Street. This area (bounded by two schools) could prove dangerous with the opening next month of the new Guadalupe Canyon Parkway. Let's hope once the overpassing ball gets rolling for this area it will keep on going 'til completion — unlike that one in South San Francisco.

Letters to the Editor

'Juvenile Lawbreakers'

EDITOR:

I read your editorial, "Post to Print Names of Juvenile Lawbreakers," (August 30), with great interest.

I know this type of policy may deter a few juvenile offenders, but I strongly doubt that the child who has sufficient problems to be a true delinquent will be affected by this policy, and many may actually find satisfaction, since they usually are children who can gain attention only in negative behavior.

I believe that true prevention of Juvenile Lawbreakers must begin at the kindergarten level. I would also like to ask if you have ever heard of the "NH" child or inquired into the relatively new programs being started in California under the Waldie Act?

I quote William H. Berlin Jr., chief of police, Hermosa Beach:

"Recent studies have disclosed a disconcerting degree of correlation between the NH child and the general problem of juvenile delinquency."

I quote from Chief Berlin's book, "Discovery of the Potentially Delinquent Child."

"Many recent reports and studies show an extremely high rate of frustration and inability to succeed in school (generally reading) as the one consistent factor to the drop-out problem. The statistical relationship of the delinquent to the school dropout, and to the specific inability to read, has apparently reached significant proportions."

The Marianne Frostig Developmental Test

of Visual Perception is routinely given in the first semester of kindergarten in the city school system of Hermosa Beach.

Chief Berlin further states, "The State of California permits extra payments to the school districts for educationally handicap classes of 2 per cent of the population of the school district. Most authorities in the field of educational therapy place the actual need at close to 10 per cent with extra needs for another 10 per cent."

Another display of the recent awareness of the NH child is portrayed in the quote from Robert Keldgord of the California Council on Crime and Delinquency.

Keldgord states, "Just as police officers are now learning to distinguish between diabetics and drunks who manifest similar symptoms, to probation officers in training in Alameda County are learning to distinguish between the NH adolescent and the true delinquent."

I believe that if the Post would truly wish to help prevent juvenile delinquency, they could, by beginning a campaign that would place the emphasis on the elementary school child. Solve the problems at this age and there will be far less need to rehabilitate or condemn when a child has reached his teens.

I enjoy the Post very much and I am an enthusiastic reader.

Our Opinion

All Specialists

In this age of technical complexity, the role of the specialist — usually referred to as the expert — is a respected one. There are those who predict the day is not far off when everyone gainfully employed will be a specialist of some sort.

For those who are dismayed by the fact that man of many skills but little expertise — what formerly was called the well-rounded man — may disappear into an ever narrowing channel of specialization, it is a joyous occasion when an expert falls flat on his face or when one of his fundamental tenets comes unheeded.

So, rejoice, all you believers in non-specialization. The exalted profession of psychology has just been delivered a terrible blow, by no less qualified a team of experts than a group of scientists from the University of California.

Psychologists have been practicing their calling for years on the assumption that the brain does not change size with the learning process. No matter how intelligent the scholar nor how ignorant the dolt, they argued, the brains of the two extremes may differ in electrical impulses but they will be the same in size.

That was before the laboratory rats in Berkeley obligingly conducted a series of controlled tests for three scientists and proved their brains, at least, do change size and structure with the learning process.

Interestingly, brain enlargement seems to be a temporary phenomenon, occurring only when the subject is involved in intensive learning. Once the new knowledge has been permanently embedded in its memory cells, the brain shrinks back to normal size.

Girls Will Tell Story Of Summer Abroad

Jaclyn Achille and Perky Gillespie, Westmoor High School seniors, have returned from a summer abroad in the "Experiment in International Living," and are all ready to talk about it.

The girls were sponsored by the school and a Daly Citizens committee.

Miss Gillespie spent the summer in Italy, living with a family at Alessandria, near Milan.

She also visited Rome and Assisi, the latter being the former home of St. Francis, from which came the name of San Francisco.

On her way home with other students, she visited the medieval city of Bruges in Belgium.

Miss Achille lived with a family in Japan near the city of Matsuyama, on the island of Shikoku, south of Tokyo.

She lived on a farm where the father raised rice and vegetables.

She visited Kyoto, the shrine of Japan, and Tokyo with other experiment students.

The girls are available to speak and show their pictures community. They may be contacted through the Rev. Herbert committee.

TWO WESTMOOR seniors have returned to their classes in Daly City after a summer abroad, Miss Jaclyn Achille (left) in Japan; Miss Perky Gillespie in Italy.

The First Policemen

The first policemen were called blue devils and raw lobsters. They were known as crushers and coppers because they were suspected of being members of a secret army that wanted to put the Duke of Wellington on the throne. Many intelligent men denounced them as a slap in the face to honest men.

This information comes from a new book from England, "A Pictorial History of Crime — 1840 to the Present" by Julian Symons.

It is a large book with 750 illustrations and thirteen sections. A section on the F.B.I. reveals that it was organized in 1908 through President Theodore Roosevelt's determination to create an instrument to enforce federal law and prevent criminals from escaping justice by simply crossing a state boundary.

One of its first directors was implicated in the Teapot Dome scandal. The Bureau did not become effective until 1929 when J. Edgar Hoover became the director.

ONE OF HOOVER'S first jobs was to convince authorities that policemen should be trained. "All a policeman needs to know," said one hard bitten old timer, "is the ten Commandments."

But Hoover persisted. In 1935 a class of 23 officers gathered for a 12 weeks study course. The success of this and subsequent classes was so remarkable that they developed into the F.B.I. National Academy.

Meanwhile crime in the United States and in Europe was already organized into empires that "resembled more than anything else a feudal society in which barbarous robber barons fought and killed each other for supremacy." Before such organizations the F.B.I. was nearly helpless because it was unable to act until the gangs violated a federal law.

The major role of the F.B.I. emerged in destroying the gangs that operated in the American mid-west. These were groups of ruthless killers who acted in the tradition of Jesse James — their names will send chills up and down American spines — John Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd, Baby Face Nelson, Homer Van Meter.

Their exploits convinced many authorities that the age of "college cops" had arrived. The education of policemen became big business. Today "trained cops" use science in fighting crime. Their tools include cameras, dental charts, finger prints and ballistic records.

THE AUTHOR of "A Pictorial History of Crime" includes in his book pictures and accounts of the police using microscopes, ultraviolet rays, and spectrophotometers to track down guilty persons.

A chapter entitled "Modern Police Methods" shows pictures of efficient police forces in all parts of the world — even in Nysaland, and rural India — as well as in the United States and Great Britain. One picture reveals that even in tiny Liechtenstein there is an efficient "Security Corps" containing eight well trained policemen and one patrol van.

Symons book has a chapter about the Mafia, another about sex criminals, still another about punishment or therapy.

One of the most readable sections is the last called "Great Modern Cases." Here the reader sees modern police forces cutting through the webs of master criminals to solve cases of treason and murder that seemed unsolvable.

"A Pictorial History of Crime" has been called a monumental work and a "panorama of crime and its detection in one magnificent volume."

(Better Business Bureau)

Something for Nothing?

The age-old desire of man to get something for nothing places a large percentage of well-educated consumers on the same level in the market place as the uneducated.

Despite many warnings of Better Business Bureaus over the country, the consumer is still entering into agreements for home improvement items under the impression that he will be guaranteed a certain sum of money for referral sales made on leads furnished by them.

Unfortunately, few people ever receive any real results from verbal sales agreements. Any company offering special inducements to sell their product should be willing to put such plans in detail on paper.

Unless the agreement is put into writing, do NOT count upon receiving extra money to help pay off obligations. It would be wise to follow the following tips if you are considering home improvement work:

1. "Your home has been selected as a model" is the oldest and phoniest pitch used by unethical home improvement promoters. You will not get a special price or commission.

2. The "Factory Representative" works for the contractor, not the factory. Manufacturers do not solicit business in this way.

3. "We are approved by the Better Business Bureau" is a gross misstatement. The Bureau does not give credit ratings or credit information on companies or individuals. It does not act as a reference for any individual or business or give recommendations or endorsements. It does furnish, upon request, available information concerning business practices of local firms dealing direct with the public.

4. "Sign Now, or the price will go up" is an attempt to force a decision without giving a person time to think it over. Legitimate firms do not increase their estimates.

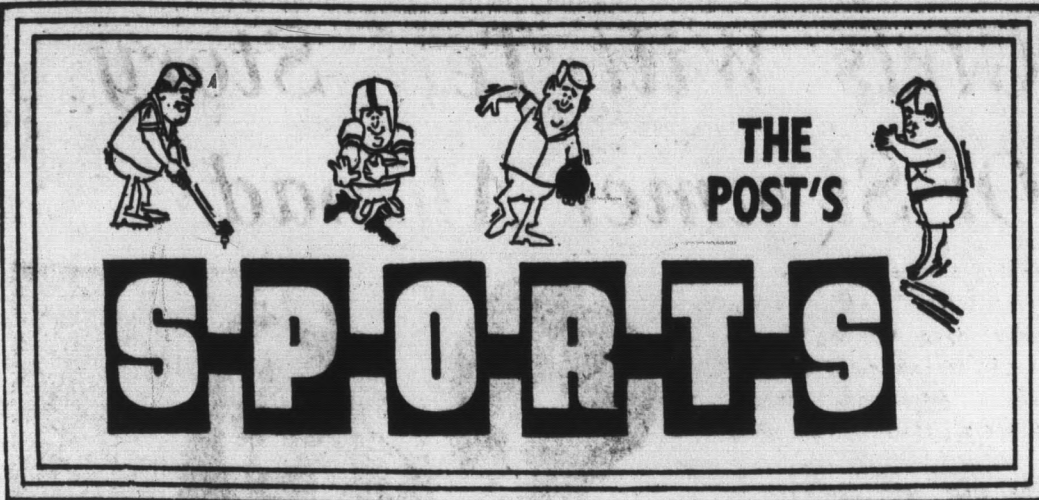

5. "You would not be satisfied with the article advertised" is a sure tip that the company is using bait advertising. Chances are that no one ever got the work done at the low advertised price.

6. Phony inspectors who use scare tactics in and around the home are a danger signal. It is the time of year for the annual fall furnace cleaning racket.

7. Guarantees mean nothing unless the firm behind the guarantee is reliable and the exact terms are included in the contract. Make sure the company you are doing business with is not a fly-by-night outfit.

8. Beware of attempts to make substitutions. Do not rely on "just as good brands" offered instead of well-known brands.

NEVER sign a completion certificate until the entire job is done to complete satisfaction.

Bulldogs Sneak By To Opening Victory

By JOHN HORGAN
Post Sports Writer

CHAMPION SWIMMER Doray Fisher holds the meet trophy won by her team, the Millbrae Otters, at the A.A.U. Class "A" swim meet last week at Crestmoor. Al Cavagnaro presented the trophy in behalf of the Millbrae Lions Club.

With a huge collective sigh of relief, the College of San Mateo, having snuck by visiting San Joaquin Delta College, 20-15, on Saturday, can now prepare for some revenge.

Object of that animal emotion will be Santa Monica City College, CSM's next opponent and an outfit which pummeled the Bulldogs unmercifully in 1966 by the awesome tune of 55-26 in the Southland.

Coach Cliff Giffin, who shuddered at the manner in which his troops almost gave away their opening contest over the weekend to a good Delta eleven, professed ignorance of his coming Saturday night opponent: "We don't know anything about them—yet." Emphasis on the "yet."

Giffin knows one thing about Santa Monica: they have been known to utilize the forward pass. In fact, as CSM knows only too well, Santa Monica never does anything but pass. As Giffin put it, "We got a little confused against them last year and it seemed like they passed for about 2,000 yards."

It is reported that SMCC, usually a nationally ranked junior college power, has no less than six quarterbacks who can throw the ball well. And, you can bet your next welfare check that Santa Monica coaches who watched CSM's effort against solid Delta will not change their usual game plan one iota.

Only the CSM defensive line and linebackers (especially the latter) managed to contain Delta late in the game to preserve the win.

Giffin was highly pleased with his over-all defense and lauded linebackers Vic Ornelas and Dave Bliss in particular.

He added that he was "reasonably happy" with new quarterback Fred Garrett's performance and that he would continue to use the San Mateo High School graduate as his starter even though Fred had an "off day" with only six of 20 passes completed.

San Mateo got touchdowns from fullback Al Namanny on a five-yard run, from split end Gary Fleming on a beautiful pass and run play from Garrett that covered 66 yards and from halfback Marty Kreidt on a nifty 19-yard run. Dan Perego kicked both conversions.

Off To Bad Start

Bay Meadows Frustrations

By GARRY NIVER
Post Sports Writer

Bay Meadows officials are hoping that the race track will settle down to the serious business of horse racing without any mishaps this week.

The first four days of racing have been anything but perfect. First, a strike delayed the opening and then Native Diver succumbed to an illness.

And Saturday, one of the top mares in the West probably ran her last race in a game, winning effort and Northern California's top jockey was handed one of the sternest penalties in recent years by the Stewards.

Admirably, whom at one time shared the world's record for six furlongs at 1:07 4-5, staggered to victory in the $15,000 added Hillsborough Handicap to claim the filly and mare championship for the Tanforan at Bay Meadows meet.

Takes Command And it was probably her last championship as she broke down in the last quarter of a mile and never made it back to the winner's circle.

The speedy mare took command on the stretch turn and, as the prohibitive public choice, appeared to be a galloping winner. However, just before mid-stretch she stumbled and staggered all over the race track across the finish line. Jockey Jerry Lambert pulled her up and jumped off on the back stretch.

"She was about to go down," Lambert stated. Lambert, who has ridden her six times and never been beaten on her, said that it was the first time he really had to apply pressure to her to win.

She just managed to last over the fast closing My Thel and Khal Ireland and toured the mile journey in a slow 1:38 flat.

Preliminary examination of Admirably's right foreleg indicated that she can be saved for breeding purposes. Veterinarians examining the classy steed said that she probably pulled a couple of tendons.

It was the five year old's 20th victory in 29 lifetime starts and the $8,925 she picked up boosted her lifetime earnings to a lofty $176,902. She paid $2.80 to win.

Jockey Bobby Jennings, the nation's tallest saddlesmith and king of the Northern California County Fair circuit, was suspended ten days for a ride which the Bay Meadows stewards termed questionable.

"Jockey Bobby Jennings is suspended ten racing days, September 19 to September 29, inclusive, for an obvious error in judgement in the rating of Poker Chip Jim," the officials stated.

They said that Jennings took the horse back to far through the back stretch.

Rams Fall to Serra Padres

Serra Has Pass Game

If the Serra High School Padres can successfully sustain their potent aerial attack this season, more than one Catholic Athletic League team will experience the same frustrations that the Westmoor Rams did Saturday.

Jess Freitas' brains and young Jess Freitas Jr.'s arm picked apart a bewildered Westmoor secondary defense for a convincing 34-7 victory on the losers' field. The elder Freitas, coaching master of the Pads, installed some made-to-order plays for his talented offspring and it turned out to be one of the strongest aerial games seen on the Peninsula in many seasons.

The Pads had everything going for them — each of their four receivers was as glue-fingered and agile as could be expected. Add to that the Swiss-cheese pass defense of the Rams and you have exactly what it was — a rout.

"Jess made some fine passes," admitted his proud coach, "but I can't say enough for the way the ends and linemen played today. He certainly had some fine ends to throw to all day."

The halfbacks didn't do so poorly on the receiving end, either. In fact, first blood was drawn by the Pads when halfback Mike Chiurco hauled in a 28-yard pass from Freitas early in the second quarter.

Jim Lewis, the much-talked-about junior transfer running back for Westmoor, almost set the Pads flat on their robes the first time he touched the ball as a Ram. The younger brother of San Francisco 49er fullback Gary Lewis gathered in Serra's first punt and raced 72 yards for an apparent touch-down early in the first quarter. But a clipping penalty nullified the run after Lewis had personally broken four tackles.

Lewis made up for it with seven minutes left in the half when he swept around right end for a 69-yard scoring jaunt.

All Serra

After that it was all Serra. Pat McGlennan, a 6-3 end who played as though he had six pairs of hands all containing foot-long fingers, made it look easy against the inexperienced Ram backs as he hauled in seven passes for 124 yards and one touchdown. That TD was the winning margin and came on a 45-yarder from Freitas.

Right at the start of the second half it was apparent the were slipping. Lewis took a 45-yarder from Freitas and looked downfield to throw when he dropped the ball allowing four Pads to fall on it on the one-inch line. From there it took fullback Steve Fagan just one try to score.

Late in the third quarter Serra drove 60 yards in six short plays with the big play coming on a 26-yard pass to McGlennan.

Top Pacifica Bass Derby Awards Given

Three winners in the Pacifica Bass Derby were awarded trophies Thursday from the Jaycees, sponsors of the annual competition.

Dennis Simpson received the first place trophy for a 43-pound bass, George Yaron, second place for a 36 pounder and Ed Johnston third place for a 34 pound bass.

The Derby presentations were made at the Pacifica Sport Center, and coffee and donuts were served to the guests, according to Ted Dompier, chairman of the derby.

The Jaycees also presented free fishing lures to the first 60 persons to arrive for the festivities after 6:30 p.m.

Cougars Tie Willits, 26-26

Half Moon Bay School got its 1967 football season off on a bright note Saturday night with a 26-26 tie with Willits in that Northern California city.

The Cougars of Coach Jerry Murphy now get a week off to prepare for their next game which is set for September 30 with Lick-Wilmerding of San Francisco.

North Carolina will have an early football season this year. The Tar Heels open with North Carolina State at Raleigh, N.C., on September 16 and finish with their 10th game on November 18 at Duke.

Cap Looks Tough

Capuchino High School is at it again!

The Mustangs, who have had nothing but success on the gridiron, look like another strong contender today in the wake of last week's 25-13 win over Kennedy High School in a practice game that opened the season for both schools.

Capuchino got off to a fast start with a 65-yard march capped by quarterback Mike Aguzin's eight-yard romp around right end for the score. The extra point attempt was wide.

The Eagles parlayed a series of short ground gainers, a pair of penalties and then halfback Nelson went off tackle into the end zone to tie the score. The extra point gave Kennedy a 7-6 lead.

The remainder of the game belongs to Capuchino. They scored once more before the half ended, but again the extra point failed making it 12-7.

There was a definite strain on the defensive teams all afternoon. Neither the Mustangs or the Eagles could get their aerial games into gear, therefore, most of the gaining was left up to the infantry.

Kennedy went to the goal line once more in the second half.

Jets, Last 6 Are Winners In Basketball

Daly City Recreation Department Adult Three-Man Basketball League play continued last week, with wins going to the Jets and the Last Six.

The Jets ramblled past the Status Seekers, 41-27, behind the 18-point scoring of Ed Gropo and 17-point shooting of Russ Rege. Dave Bello had a good night for the losers, scoring 15 points.

The Last Six pulled off a big upset as they slipped past the previously undefeated Wildcats 41-34, behind the fine shooting of Verne Buer and Dick Gallianf, each of whom scored 16 points. Johnny Butler scored 25 points to pace the losers.

Two New Teams

Catholic Athletic League Promises Rugged Action

By JOHN HORGAN
Post Sports Writer

As if Serra High School's football fortunes in the rugged old Catholic Athletic League have not suffered enough during the past four seasons, what do you think has happened to make the Padres grid outlook even bleaker?

Plenty. For one thing, the entire league has done a turnabout. It has a new name, the West Catholic League, two new teams, Mitty of San Jose and St. Ignatius of San Francisco, and new pressures for the old members.

With the long-awaited entrance of the powerful Wildcats of San Francisco into the loop and the addition of another Santa Clara Valley school, Mitty, there is renewed interest in prep football up and down the 50-mile long Peninsula.

In fact, the November 10 Belarmine-SI game scheduled for Buck Shaw Stadium in Santa Clara is already being hailed in most quarters as the Game of the Year. A crowd of over 20,000 is expected at Kezar Stadium on October 20 for SI-Riordan.

And what about the San Mateo-based Serrans, who have toiled futilely and fitfully for the past four years?

Since winning a share of the old CAL title in 1962, the Pads have fallen to their lowest grid level in the history of the school.

And, in this, his third season at the helm of the Padres during his third return to the school, Coach Jess Freitas does not look for big things from his team.

"I really don't know who we are going to beat," lamented Freitas, who has lost most of the club which went 4-5 last year. "We just don't have that spirited attitude that you need to win football games."

Jess, the former 49er quarterback, is banking on his own son, Jess Jr., to pull Serra through to something resembling respectability.

Young Jess is a junior quarterback who has the potential to lead the Serrans out of the wilderness — if he gets a modicum of support from his fellows.

"He looks good. He knows what's going on," says his dad. "He needs some help from that offensive line to take advantage of it."

Some of the other players whom Freitas is counting upon for help include: backs, Mike Chiurco, Steve Fagan, Chuck Stancil, Tom Scott and linemen Ed Paoli (a huge 280-pound tackle), Mike Hickey, Tom Caselli, Dennis Rosaia and ends and flankers, Pat McGlennan, Dan Sullivan, and Steve Morello.

Freitas' main concerns are a lack of experience, a lack of depth and a lack of seniors. His team this year will be composed mainly of juniors. As Jess put it yesterday: "They (the juniors) might have to carry some of the seniors along on their backs and that's not good."

Not good indeed. Not when the rest of the WCAL shapes up like this:

Belarmine — Although missing outstanding quarterback Dan Pastorini, the Bells seem to have the necessary ingredients to take the title again. A solid line led by Mike Graybill, Tim Vatoune and Pete Forrest make the Bells solid up front. The outlook is bright again in the Land of the Prune.

St. Ignatius — Another club with signal-caller problems, SI is also loaded with good, big linemen. Mike Ryan, a 247-pounder, is easily one of the finest linemen in the Bay Area and he's just a junior. Ray Washmera is a tough fullback. And don't forget that Wildcat title tradition.

Riordan — Coach Doc Erskine, the Daly City whiz who was named "Coach of the Year" in Northern California for his team's 8-1 season last year, is out to do it all this time. Jim Walsh, a converted fullback, takes over the quarterback chores and gets help from good linemen Jim Moore, Mike Lofano and others.

St. Francis — The Lancers were 0-9 in 1966, the worst season in the history of the school by far. That ought to alter somewhat this time. Bob Klatt and Bill Hiegel will share the QB duties and they will be throwing to John Bland (a Serra transfer), Jim Winters and others.

St. Mary's — An increase in football emphasis and a new coach in Al Isola ought to give the Panthers respectability. They had their finest season ever in 1966 and ought to be able to play back to some of that glory (they tied for the crown) this year.

Mitty — It's hard to predict what is in store for the new San Jose school but Coach John McGushin has never been one to hem and haw about potential. He has scheduled no less than ten games for this year and is out to win his share of them. His players have been together for three years at a minimum (some of them for four) and team unity alone will make their initial varsity efforts formidable.

The end result ought to be some of the most exciting and well-played football in the state. That's what the fans, students and other interested parties have been saying for weeks.

Computers Could Replace The Athletic Contestants

Common sense should have told us all that it had to come to be; that fact would someday have to over-take fancy.

Last week a United Press story came blaring over the wires that Jack Dempsey had knocked out Jim Corbett in the seventh round.

This remarkable achievement had been done, of course, by computer, and had been the opening program on a new radio series in Ohio which for the next 15 weeks will match immortal against immortal; which will, of course, no longer make them immortal. Probably Cassius Clay will beat Rocky Marciano or Joe Louis.

The day will soon be here when athletes won't even have to bother to show up to the field. They'll just drop by the computer centers and slip their profile cards into an electronic feeder belt. Trades will probably be made by coaches flipping player cards against a wall, closest card wins.

If there is a consolation in the whole dreary matter, it may be that the 49er's will hire a robot to take Bob Fouts' place. A replacement for Gordy Saltau will require more imagination.

If it hasn't already caught your attention, jovial Eddie Stanky has taken up a crusade against tight baseball pants, or knickers, as they are more properly called, claiming that they are nothing more than sex symbols and as such don't belong on a baseball field.

One could, we suppose, evolve quite a discussion from the latter statement, but to keep things simpler and more directly to the point, the Sporting News conducted a poll among major league players to determine the eight top tight-pants, and the National League placed six players. The only two American Leaguers were Yankees. Luckily for Stanky's moral stance, he's in the American League and has beaten the Yankees regularly.

Four of the six National Leaguers, you might note in the following list (Pittsburgh's Al McBean won going away), are Giants; which we guess is some sort of perverted consolation for placing no one among the top ten batters, an honor which in retrospect, in this fashion-conscious computerized age, is probably rather inconsequential. The List:

1) McBean 2) Jimmy Hart 3) Tito Fuentes) Pete Rose 5) Willie Mays 6) Joe Pepitone 7) Willie McCovey 8) Mickey Mantle.

The Giant pitching staff, at this writing, leads the majors in complete games with 50 despite Juan Marichal's absence. Marichal, incidentally, still leads the majors in complete games. Closest to the Giants is the American League leader, Minnesota, with 45.

In the National League, the Cubs are second with 40 complete games. Next is Cleveland, 42. After that it's fairly well bunched up. The White Sox, surprisingly, are pretty well down the list with only 30 completed games.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: Here's one for you baseball historians. If the Twins win the flag, will they be the first major league team in history to win a pennant despite a mid-season managerial change (Cal Ermer for Sam Mele)?

LOCAL NOTES: Rich Morales, the Pacifica (Westmoor High) shortstop, finished up the season with Indianapolis in the PCL looking like a stronger hitter than before he was so briefly elevated to the White Sox... Daly City and Westmoor's Terry Christman is finishing up the season with the Mets... If you don't already know it, South San Francisco's great prep athlete, Greg Jones, is a regular running back (although only a soph) with the strong UCLA Bruins, having taken the place of All American Mel Farr...

Pretty Leaves, Beef Rolls

Good morning, good cooks.

Here we are with autumn upon us: "Season of mists and mellow fruitfulness," wrote John Keats.

What does autumn mean to you? New outfits for the first day of school, new books with no marks in them? If you are from the East, it means falling leaves, collecting the prettiest to press into your new school books.

I always used my geography book for leaf pressing, it was my largest book and ideally suited to the job. I also used it for studying, occasionally.

When most of the leaves had fallen we had the fun (though we complained mightily at the job) of raking them into huge piles and finally burning them. The smell of burning leaves, wasn't it wonderful?

Well we don't have the falling leaves and all the attending pains and pleasures — but we do have Our Darlings going back to school. And coming home with daily reports about their new teachers and new friends and TOO MUCH home work.

As parents we feel called upon to tell them that we had much more homework than they; we did it happily, even eagerly. "Ho-hum," they say, "here we go again with the 'we were perfect children bit.'"

Poor kids! Aren't you mothers glad you're adults and don't have to listen to such boring lectures?

No lectures here, though, just some very interesting ideas for tonight's dinner.

The first recipe is for stuffed beef rolls and is quite easy to make and the result is a delicious entree.

STUFFED BEEF ROLLS

- 6 cubed steaks
- Salt and pepper
- 1 1/4 cups ready-mix bread stuffing
- 3/4 cups water
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons drippings
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves

Sprinkle the six cubed steaks with salt and pepper. Combine the bread stuffing mix one and three-fourths cup bread stuffing with the three-fourths cup water and two tablespoons melted butter; stir to mix well.

Spread the stuffing thinly on each cubed steak; roll up and tie with clean white string.

Heat the two tablespoons drippings with the minced clove of garlic in a heavy frying pan with a tight-fitting cover. Brown beef rolls, a few at a time, on all sides; pour off excess fat; return rolls to pan.

Add the one can of tomato sauce mixed with the one-eighth teaspoon cloves; cover tightly; bring to boiling, reduce heat and simmer for one hour or until rolls are tender when pierced with a 2-time fork. Cut away strings.

Arrange rolls on heated serving dish; spoon hot cooked vegetable around edge. Serve the gravy separately.

I served hot rice, green beans and a lettuce and tomato salad with these rolls and it made an attractive and tasty dinner. Serves 6.

AN FOR DSSERT try this orange date cake. Yum! Enjoy it, with its tasty sauce, and forget about calories.

ORANGE DATE CAKE

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2-3 cup buttermilk
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- 1-cup chopped dates
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Cream the one-half cup margarine with the one cup sugar until light and fluffy. Then beat in the two eggs, one at a time, creaming well after each addition.

Sift the two cups cake flour with the one teaspoon baking soda and one-fourth cup salt. Add the sifted dry ingredients to the creamed mixture alternately with the two-thirds cup buttermilk. Blend well.

Add the tablespoon grated orange rind, one cup chopped dates and one-half cup chopped nuts. Turn into greased 9x13 pan. Bake at 375-degrees for 40 minutes or until it tests done. Remove from oven; cool for 10 minutes and pour sauce over cake. Allow to cool in pan.

Cut in squares to serve and if you really don't care about calories, top with a dollop of whipped cream.

SAUCE

- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Combine the one-half cup each sugar and orange juice with the one tablespoon grated orange rind in a saucepan. Cook until clear, about 10 minutes.

Zucchini is a wonderful vegetable that is willing to accommodate itself to many methods of cooking. Boil and mash it with butter; fry it in oil with a clove of minced garlic; add tomatoes and cheese, almost anything you do to zucchini only makes it better. This cheddar cheese loaf is a perfect example of zucchini's adaptability.

CHEDDAR CHEESE BAKE

- 6 cups thinly sliced unpared zucchini
- 2-slightly beaten egg yolks
- 1-cup dairy sour cream
- 2-tbsp. flour
- 2-stiffly-beaten egg whites
- 6-slices crisps cooked bacon, drained and crumbled
- 1-tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 1/2-cups shredded natural cheddar cheese
- 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs

Simmer the six cups of squash until tender, drain and add salt to taste. Combine the two egg yolks with the one cup of sour cream and two tablespoons flour with half the egg mixture, three-fourths cup of the fold in the two egg whites.

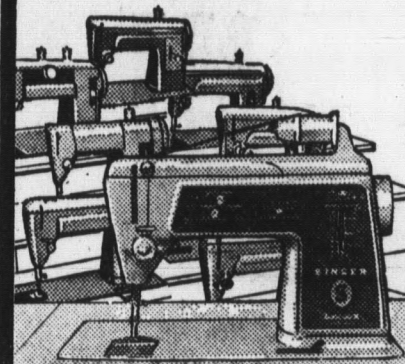

Place half of squash in 12x7x2-inch baking dish. Top with cheese and six slices crumbled bacon. Repeat layers of squash, egg mixture and the remaining three-fourths cup cheese.

Melt the one tablespoon butter, stir in the one-fourth cup bread crumbs, and sprinkle over all. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Cut in squares to serve. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Cheer for the Aged

Have you decided that you have some extra time now that summer is over? If you have, and if you are thinking about doing a little volunteer work Mrs. Frank Murphy would love to talk with you about her latest project, a volunteer group to help cheer up the aged at the San Bruno Convalescent Hospital in San Bruno.

"The aged live a most lonely life and just a visit from someone helps a lot," Mrs. Murphy explained. "Volunteers can spend an hour reading to the older persons who have lost their sight or they may begin working on something to help make their holidays a lot brighter."

Currently Mrs. Murphy is eager for help in preparing Christmas decorations. She would like to hear from groups of musicians, singers and square dancers who would be willing to perform for the patients. If you have a few moments extra time and you feel you would enjoy this type of work, contact Mrs. Murphy, 992-5865, and discuss the program with her.

If San Bruno is too far for you to travel perhaps assisting with the similar program at the Skyline Terrace home would be more convenient. Volunteers play bingo, sing songs and help the elderly patients make handicraft items.

The home is most anxious for helpers either private individuals or groups, according to Mrs. Murphy, and prospective volunteers are requested to call Mrs. John W. Nelson at PL 5-6154 or 588-3631.

One of the local groups which has a fine reputation for volunteer performances, the Belles 'n Beaus, has announced that it will expand into a larger and more county oriented group to be called the North County Chorales, according to the instructor-director Mrs. Patti Parks Stolz.

The Chorales are a part of the program sponsored by the Jefferson Union High School, Adult Education Department and meet on Thursday evenings in the band room of Westmoor High School for rehearsals.

Mrs. Stolz reports that the chorus is beginning the year with an ambitious membership drive which will extend throughout the North County area and recruit "tremendous tenors, shower sopranos and bathtub baritones" from Pacifica, South San Francisco and San Bruno as well as the Daly City-Colma area.

Class enrollment has begun and Mrs. Stolz indicates she is eagerly awaiting the opportunity to instruct all interested students in correct choral interpretation, timing, notation, diction, sight reading and the methods of effective community performances. The program is aimed at installing a love of music and encouraging its use in every home, community service event as well as helping persons make constructive use of leisure time.

For information call the Jefferson High School District offices, PL 5-1162.

In her absence Mrs. Warren Zucker, the vice president, has been presiding.

TERRA NOVA TOPICS

Unfamiliar Faces, New Developments

By MARIA MONTENEGRO

Fourteen hundred regretful, but anticipating students filled the halls and classrooms of Terra Nova last week to begin this year's round of studies and activities. The latest crop of 350 or so Freshmen, as in previous years, was characterized by apologetic smiles and their difficulties with locker combinations.

Even harder to say than Toni is Panagoulas—the name of TN's new principal. Rumor has it that he can be more easily addressed as "Mr. Pan."

Also from Westmoor, where he served as attendance supervisor and director of student activities, is Richard Hart, a new addition to the counseling staff.

Thirteen other new faces on campus are the teachers who replace their duties this year to begin last year's departed faculty.

More new developments —This year students are assigned to counselors according to the first letters of their last names instead of by class.

Their problems remain the same.

—The DECA Den, open before and after school and at lunch is the major enterprise of Mrs. Nela Nocita's Advanced Merchandising class. It is the long-awaited student store for school supplies.

DECA, by the way, stands for Distributive Education Clubs of America and is manned by TN merchandising students.

OTHER "NEWS" includes the eight new courses which have appeared on the scene. These are Introduction to Humanities, taught by David Campbell; Le Pacini (of POST fame) teaches Creative Writing; Intermediate Band under John Bentley; Advanced Merchandising—Mrs. Nela Nocita; Biology Green Version —Bob Curley; Sculpture —Lee Mosher; Crafts Design Lab —Floyd Champneys; and Senior Homemaking — Mrs. Louina Krieger.

After-school activities are beginning to gain momentum as campus clubs send out their first meeting announcements.

The TN Executive Board meets today to continue the work started at their two summer meetings. Board members started student body card sales last Friday. Each $3.50 card saves the buyer $34 on school activities and publications.

First chance to try out student body cards will come this Friday night at the season's first Varsity football game against Cresmoor High. Game time is 8:00 p.m. at the Burlingame High field. Rooters bus tickets are now on sale.

FOURTEEN HUNDRED smiling faces posed for yearly I.D. pictures last Monday—the Drama Department got a head start on its Tuesday night films last night with THE YEARLING. Movies start at 7:30 p.m. in the TN cafeteria. They are shown every other Tuesday.

Students are admitted for 40 cents, adults 60 cents. The next showing, titled Experimental Film Festival, will screen a series of eight cinema shorts, both classic and experimental. More about that next week.

HOW DO WE MAKE A FURNITURE STORE OUTSTANDING FOR YOU?

In this week's column, we'd like to tell you about a few of the different things we try to do to give you the outstanding furniture store in this area.

First, our sales personnel are trained and experienced furniture consultants with a thorough background in the decorative arts which enables them to intelligently be of help in solving your furnishing problems.

Second, we know customers want honesty, knowledge and sincerity — and we make sure we live up to those qualities.

Third, we attempt to sell the best possible furniture in a wide selection of price ranges. Since the furniture and decorating business is so competitive, we continuously explore the many furniture factories and markets to find better values in good quality furnishings for you.

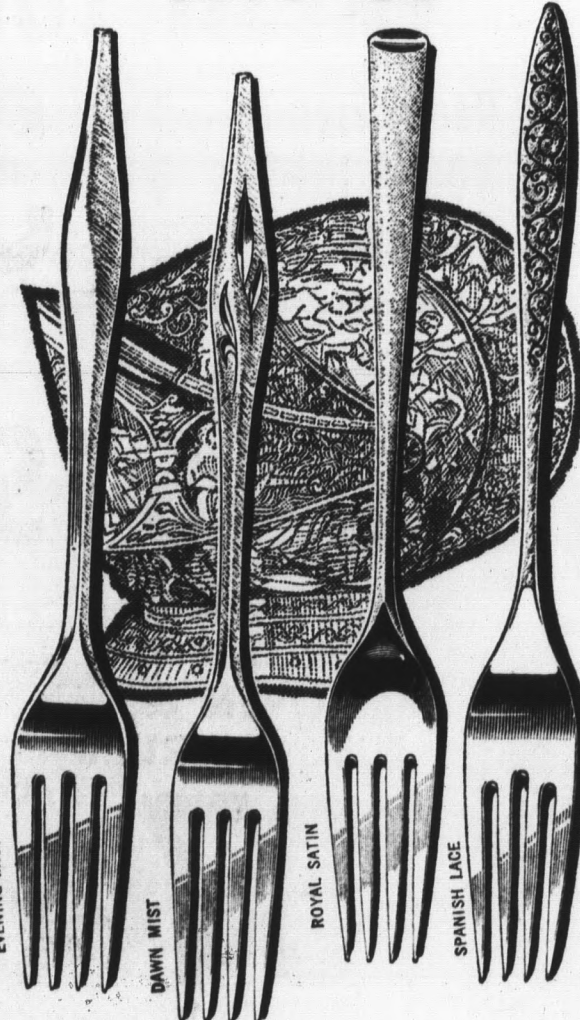

We try to give a service which is "beyond the call of duty" by continuing this service long after the sale is made.

Every place of business develops what is known as an "atmosphere" which is another word for reputation. A good atmosphere is a priceless thing to any firm because it doesn't have a price tag. It can only be earned by fair and satisfactory dealings, by mutual respect and confidence between the business and his customers.

And we know that by doing this, we can serve you well and satisfy you — so that you will want to return to us and recommend others to us.

POLITICAL PARADE

The Draper Congressional Campaign Committee North County Headquarters will hold its grand opening Thursday, September 21, at 7:30 p.m. it was announced today by Mrs. Mark Senaldi, North County Women's Chairman. The office will be located at 411 Grand Avenue, South San Francisco.

More than 400 invitations have been sent out to North County residents to attend the opening and meet congressional candidate William H. Draper, according to Mrs. James Sargent, South San Francisco co-chairman. Mrs. Sargent indicated that the opening festivities are open to the public. Reservations are not necessary.

Draper will speak briefly to the guests and they will be invited to ask him questions on both local and national issues.

Morris A. Cox, president of William Volker Company, has been appointed co-chairman of the Finance Committee for the William H. Draper Congressional Campaign. It was announced today by Dean A. Watkins, campaign chairman.

Cox, who is president of the Peninsula Hospital District, is a certified public accountant and a member of the Financial Executives Institute of America.

He has served as a director of the American National Red Cross, Golden Gate Chapter, director, Presbyterian Medical Center, San Francisco, and has served as an elder in both the Christian and Presbyterian churches.

Cox is vice president of the William Volker Fund and a director of Joanna Western Mills, a Chicago-based home furnishings firm.

Andy Leavitt, San Mateo County realtor, has been named chairman of Democrats for Draper, it was announced today by Dean A. Watkins, chairman of the William H. Draper Congressional Campaign Committee.

Leavitt, who has been a San Mateo County resident and businessman for 21 years, declared, "Even though I am a registered Democrat, I have realized in recent years that many Democratic office holders have been swayed in their good judgment by the extreme leftists. For this reason, I supported Gov. Ronald Reagan and I now support William H. Draper because I feel their philosophy towards government more clearly emphasizes the position that I also have taken."

Leavitt further stated that he believes that Draper is the only candidate who exemplifies the type of individual whose principles, policies and experience best qualify him to represent the people of San Mateo County.

Active in San Mateo politics for a number of years, Leavitt served as San Mateo city chairman for Pat Brown in 1958, but supported Ronald Reagan in the last election as chairman of the Realtors for Reagan for Governor Committee. He has been especially active in California Real Estate Association and San Mateo Board of Realtors programs, serving as chairman of the Board's political affairs committee. He was also chairman of the Committee for Home Protection.

Accepting the assignment as chairman of Democrats for Draper, Leavitt called on "all intelligent Democrats to join with me in electing Bill Draper as a member of Congress from the 11th Congressional District."

Dan Monaco, Candidate for Congress from the 11th Congressional District, announced today the appointment of two County Co-Chairmen to head up the Lawyers' Committee for Monaco. Monaco named Walter Truce, of Atherton and a member of the San Carlos firm of Truce, Veal & Jackson. Mr. Truce is a past president of the San Mateo County Bar Association, Past President of the San Mateo County United Crusade, and former City judge of Belmont. He was a charter member and president of the San Carlos Rotary Club, and Commander of the Belmont Post of the American Legion, having been a Naval lieutenant. Presently, he is president of Northern California Service League of San Mateo County.

Co-Chairman with Truce is Saul Ross, resident of Hillsborough and member of the San Bruno firm of Ross & Webber. He is a past president of the San Mateo County Bar Association, former City Judge of San Bruno, former City Attorney of San Bruno, and is presently Chairman of the State Bar Administration Committee for San Mateo County.

The Johnson administration today was accused by San Mateo County congressional candidate Bob Barry of "lagging badly" in self-help legislation affecting senior citizens.

Barry made his remarks in Daly City to some 50 volunteers at the opening of his new north county campaign headquarters at Mission and Wellington streets.

In three terms in Congress (1959-65), Barry was a staunch advocate of relaxing social security restrictions on allowable earnings for senior citizens.

As early as 1961, the former Congressman proposed steps just now being adopted. The recent effort is "too little and too late," he said.

Barry introduced House Resolutions 4810 in 1961 and 10490 in 1962 in an effort to raise the maximum amount retired Social Security recipients could earn — from $1,500 to $2,400 — without losing Social Security benefits.

"One of the ironies of our present Social Security program is that it forces into nonproductive retirement those who would prefer to continue supporting themselves through productive work. The situation remains uncorrected!"

His bills, Barry explained to his Daly City audience, attempted to "ease somewhat the injustice of forcing senior citizens to pay for the privilege of supporting themselves."

Barry labeled Social Security penalties on earnings of recipients "morally wrong and psychologically demoralizing."

To most people, Barry continued, work is an essential ingredient for happiness, self-respect and dignity. And the majority of Americans favor removing the Social Security earnings limit entirely.

Dan R. Love, San Mateo County civic leader, called a press conference at the Pressroom of the Hall of Justice in Redwood City to display a letter he received from the late Congressman J. Arthur Younger which indicated that he favored an open primary election and would not endorse anyone or urge anyone to run.

The letter written on June 6, two weeks prior to Younger's death on June 20, states: "It seems that it was wise to serve notice now that I would not be a candidate in 1968 so that there would be plenty of time for the respective candidates to get their record before the voters because I am sure we will have a very interesting and spirited primary in June of next year."

In an earlier letter to a prospective candidate, Younger wrote, "I will not support or assist any candidate in the primary election, but will support with all my strength nominee of the Republican party."

Love said that in view of the two letters and others like them it is quite clear that Congressman Younger did not wish to influence the primary election in any way, either by urging anyone to run or help them in any way.

The Monaco for Congress campaign will move into high gear this week with the opening of three operating headquarters in Daly City, Redwood City and San Mateo.

Daly City headquarters, at 1801 Junipero Serra, will open 7:30 p.m. Friday (September 22) with many North County civic and political leaders scheduled to attend Redwood City office, 417 Lathrop Ave., and the San Mateo headquarters, 1208 S. El Camino, will open with traditional political hoopla and ceremonies on Sunday afternoon (September 24) at 2:30 and 5 p.m., respectively.

In attendance at all three headquarters openings will be the candidate, Attorney Daniel J. Monaco.

To help mothers with their most recurrent back-to-school problem, "What'll I fix for lunch today?" Del Monte Tuna has put together a folder full of new sandwich ideas. Most of the sandwiches are designed for lunchbox packing, but a few fill the stay-at-home hot lunch plate. While all of the suggestions were created with the nutritional needs and appetite leanings of youngsters in mind, they will also appeal to older palates.

The Carrot-Raisin Tuna Sandwich combines the crunch of celery and carrots, the sweetness of raisins, and the delicate goodness of tuna.

Carrot-Raisin Tuna Sandwich
 1 can (6 1/2 oz.) Del Monte Chunk Light Tuna, drained and flaked
 1/4 cup shredded carrots
 1/4 cup chopped celery
 1/3 cup Del Monte Raisins
 1/2 cup mayonnaise

Combine ingredients and mix well. Chill, if desired, before serving. Makes enough filling for 4 big sandwiches. As an example of the hot-and-hearty variety, we suggest this variation on the popular Sloppy Joe:

Sloppy Tuna Sandwich
 1 can (6 1/2 oz.) Del Monte Chunk Light Tuna, drained and flaked
 3/4 cup cubed Swiss cheese
 1/2 cup chopped celery
 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
 1/4 cup Del Monte Tomato Catsup
 5 hamburger buns, split

Combine tuna, catsup, cheese, celery and onion. Fill buns. Wrap each in foil. Bake at 375° F. for 20 minutes. Makes 5 sandwiches.

For a free folder of sandwich ideas, write Del Monte Tuna Sandwiches, P.O. Box 4139-PR, Clinton, Iowa 52732.

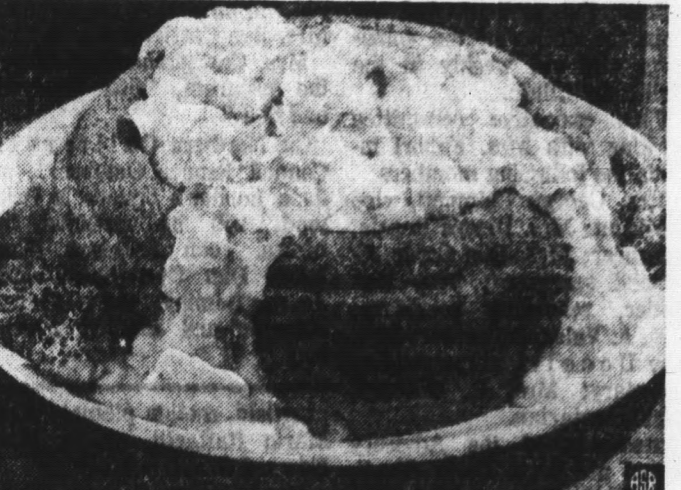

Those of us with school age children know how much they enjoy coming home to something sweet in the afternoon. Of course, chocolate crome filled cookies are always a favorite. To make them even more of an exciting fun treat, why not have the kids whip them up into a great new dessert of their own.

Chocolate Chunk Whip is a new recipe that is really so easy to make even a four-year old would find it child's play.

Here's how:

Chocolate Chunk Whip
 12 Hydrox cookies
 1 cup heavy cream
 2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon rind
 1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg

Break the cookies into small chunks and set aside. Whip the cream until thickened. Add sugar, lemon rind and nutmeg. Whip until cream holds peaks. Stir in the broken cookies. Serve. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Creamed chicken takes on company airs when served in a golden ring of crusty cornbread. One-pot preparation makes quick work of this creamed chicken. The velvety smooth sauce, made with double-rich evaporated milk, is finalized with the mushrooms and other good ingredients. Quick and easy, too, is the golden circle fashioned from a convenient package of corn muffin mix.

Company Creamed Chicken

1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
 1 chicken bouillon cube
 3 tablespoons butter
 1 tablespoon minced onion
 3 tablespoons flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Dash of pepper
 1 tall can evaporated milk (1 1/2 cups)
 2 cups diced cooked chicken

Drain liquid from mushrooms; add water to measure 1/2 cup liquid if necessary. Heat liquid; dissolve bouillon in it. Melt butter in medium size saucepan; add mushrooms and onion; cook and stir until mushrooms are lightly browned. Remove from heat. Add flour a little at a time, blending smoothly. Stir in salt, pepper, mushroom liquid and evaporated milk. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened. Add chicken; heat to serving temperature. Serve in Corn Ring. Makes 6 servings.

To make Corn Ring: Prepare a 12-ounce package of corn muffin mix according to package directions, adding 1 teaspoon paprika and 2 tablespoons chopped chives, if desired. Spoon into a well-buttered 4 or 5 cup ring mold. Bake in preheated hot oven (400° F.) 15 minutes.

San Bruno Couple Wed At St. Robert's Church

Three attendants preceded Diane Louise Walter to the altar of St. Robert's Church in San Bruno recently where she was married to James Paul Kirkpatrick.

Dixie Toole was honor attendant for Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Walter of San Bruno, and Carole Sillick and Joyce Kempf, Diane's cousin, were bridesmaids.

Diane wore a white, princess gown of organza over taffeta marked with reembrodered Alencon lace at the hemline, sleeves, and court train. She added a silk illusion veil caught by a floral headband and, for something old, carried a white lace handkerchief dating back to 1868.

The bridesmaids wore gold linen floor length dresses with small gathers in the back. Pale yellow and orange flowers marked the Empire waistline.

James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Kirkpatrick of San Bruno, asked Joseph Bloom to be his best man. Guests were seated by Gary Walter, Diane's brother, and Paul Koski.

After a reception at Carpenter's Hall in San Bruno, the couple departed for an Oregon honeymoon destination. The newlyweds are at home in San Bruno.

The new matron was graduated from Capuchino High School and the College of San Mateo and works for the San Mateo County Probation Department.

At Capuchino, she was a member of Phi Beta Cap honor society, the Girls' Athletic Association, and the California Scholarship Federation. She was named to Alpha Gamma Sigma honor society at CSM. James is the brother of David, Jan, and Joel Kirkpatrick. He also attended Capuchino High School (where he was a member of the band); and CSM (where he was in both band and choir) and will be graduated in January from San Francisco State College where he is majoring in marketing.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

The New Cookery Makes Local Restaurant Debut

THE COOKERY has been "cooking with gas" since its last Monday 7 a.m. opening. Crowds galore have been on hand to welcome the new look of today's restaurant business. The comfortable booths are as plush and relaxing as a lodge seat. West Thompson of the Wes Fran Corporation is to be congratulated on his 290 Baldwin Avenue dining production. John Fitzpatrick, whose restaurateur days have been many — with the latest being in the East Bay, is the owner of the new Cookery; Jessie Robinson is the ever-busy manager, with Dolores Hogue and Shelley Carroll tending to hostess duties. The Cookery menu is geared for breakfast, luncheon and dinner servings. Omelettes, hot cakes, waffles and all sorts of little extras so often ordered by early risers, as well as late John Fitzpatrick diners. Also 12 different varieties of hamburgers, soups, salads, fountain service, along with dinner entrees from Island Fish and Chips to New York Sirloin Steaks. Open seven days a week from 7 a.m., the new spick and span Cookery is a restaurant you'll be telling all your friends about.

TWO OF SOUTH SHORE, Lake Tahoe's best known hotels and casinos Sahara-Tahoe and Barney's, have joined to offer an important new service to bus visitors. The new Tahoe Express Bus offers, in addition to round-trip transportation, cash refunds up to $6 (depending on time of departure), two cocktails at the plush hostelry and friendly casino. The specials depart daily from many Northern California points, including San Francisco (YU 1-2700) and San Jose (293-7772). The green light was given for entertainment at Kat Patch II, the downtown Burlingame beerbar featuring dancing beermaids and billiards. When not serving thirst quenching suds, the adorable "kitten" beermaids keep in shape by "working out" on a dance platform behind the bar.

EASY DOES IT — One of the fascinating preliminaries in Louie Gundunas' "Ouzo Dance" at the Balkan Village, is when he lifts a glass of the Greek liquor from the floor with his teeth and drains it. It's a historic Greek folk dance that the crowd loves and keeps Louie from becoming thirsty.

WORDS REALLY CAN'T DO JUSTICE to the culinary artistry of chef Peter Alex, whose superb authentic Greek cuisine speaks for itself, as anyone who has dined at Alex's Zorba supper-club, in Burlingame, will attest. As "Master chef" of the Greek Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, Peter achieved the ultimate tribute from his own countrymen. Manager Mike Kourkoutakis made a wise move when he asked Peter to head his kitchen staff. . . Dick Groat, Peanuts Lowry and several other Giants will be heading home soon after a season's stay at the International Inn, South San Francisco, where they have become mainstays in Manager Doug Young's restaurant complex. Judging from the well-fed look of most of the ball players, the "Inn's" food inventory has dwindled considerably. . . Now playing their own music and songs, as well as for the topless dancers at the Galaxie on Broadway and Kearny in San Francisco, is Lenny Lee and Project 67 Quintet, direct from Las Vegas.

LOVELY SHERRI LEWIS, ringsiding at Finocchio's with a party of 10, gasped at the amazingly-beautiful wardrobe of Laverne Cummings and Al St. Claire, two of the more glamorous of the talent cast of female impersonators at Finocchio's. Sherri was also impressed with the glittering costumes of Lucian, the "male Sophie Tucker." And well she might. Most of Lucian's gowns were gifts of the late Miss Tucker, from her own wardrobe. . . You wouldn't believe some of the fashions you see during the Luncheon and Wednesday evening shows at the Brass Rail. You won't see these nude styles in Vogue or Harper's Bazaar. The evening shows are emceed by Topless Tara, who delivers some witty and hilarious comments as the gals parade on the runway. . . Louis Miguel, who is now the sole owner of The Happening in Hillsdale, says the restaurant-fountain will continue its smooth-running policy of satisfying hearty appetites.

Teachers Select Yolanda's Cafe

The California Teacher's Association (over 200 strong) held a cocktail party, last Tuesday night, at Yolanda's Terminal Cafe and Lounge in South San Francisco. Petite Yolanda Fambrial has a magic method of scheduling banquets, as the night before, the South City Chamber of Commerce met in the same facilities.

Low Lehr had a jolly twenty-first birthday dinner party in the private Party Room at his Steak House in SF's Marina when sixteen relatives and friends of John Murtagh gathered over the steaks and cocktails.

Lee Warren Pleased With Luncheon Crowds

Since its recent opening, the luncheon crowds at The Annex (or Piccadilly "South," which actually is what The Annex is meant to be) have been beyond the wildest expectations of owner Lee Warren. Record crowds turned out last week for the 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. "daily feeding" in Redwood City.

Lucien Sabella Hard Man To Find

After reading in a San Francisco newspaper, last week, that Lucien Sabella, the Fisherman's Wharf A. Sabella's restaurant "skipper," was in the hospital, I took off to see my pal of many years. Arrived at the hospital only to be told that Mr. Sabella had undergone surgery two days previously, and had gone home that morning. A hasty phone call to the family home informed me that he had just left for the golf course. Expecting to find Lou bedded down in the "lily white" for the evening, I again called. This time his lovely wife, Bobbie, answered the phone — and she said Lou was overseeing the action at the restaurant. For a gent who had more than a minor operation, I'd say Lucien Sabella gets around pretty good.

Gift Wrapped Turkey For Mary Lou Francis

It was itemed in "Bright Lights," a few Fridays ago, that Mary Lou Francis, petite co-owner of Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City, has been receiving fresh-caught fish from a certain admirer, instead of the usual roses, candy and perfume. Not to be outdone, Sundberg Poultry in Redwood City, who also think most highly of Mary Lou, presented her with a gift-wrapped turkey.

"Now," said the gracious hostess-owner with a dimpled smile, "if the butcher sends over a full loin, my collection will be complete." I'll never know how this bit started. But to break the charm, I'm inviting Mary Lou to enjoy a day at Bay Meadows.

Mr. Clean's Revue Hurry, Hurry For

Jack McRae and Phil Maita, "Pilots" of the Fireside Lounge suggest to those of you who have not as yet enjoyed Mr. Clean and his Uncalled Four, you do as soon as possible as this highly successful entertainment booking will soon be concluded and Mr. Clean will "clean out" for a Las Vegas engagement which will take him away from the Bay Area for some months. The Fireside's All-Girl topless revue continues to keep the crowds in a merry mood. If you're looking for entertainment action — Here it is.

Since reading in "Bright Lights" that Carlo Fasolo, "wagon master" of the Black Angus Chuck Wagon, was known as the "Human Fly" during World War II, youngsters dining with their families here are asking him to demonstrate his "wall climbing" feat. Right here we hasten to report that Mr. Fasolo has been grounded — and his trick today is keeping the Black Angus "All you can eat" steam table well supplied with enticing entrees.

It's about time "pizza king" Enrico Romano received a new "crown" — as his pizza production out Pacifica way has increased two fold since the day, many years ago, that "Bright Lights" gave him this official royal title. Would you believe: Romano's not only has a take-out and eat-in service.

Pacifican Drinks Lye, Recovering

A Pacifica man is reported recovering today at Mary's Help Hospital after drinking a drain cleaning solution containing a heavy concentration of lye Sunday.

John Williams, 26, of 1306 Aspen, was taken to the hospital after drinking a can of "Draino" Sunday "When he became depressed after several days of heavy drinking," police said.

Williams, a machinist for a San Francisco firm, prevented his wife from summoning help for about an hour after he drank the solution, police said.

THE LARGEST AND FINEST GIFT SELECTION IN THE BAY AREA

Doctor in The Kitchen

by W. W. Bauer, M.D.
Consultant

National Dairy Council

When I was a kid, they fed me cod liver oil. I hated it. Even when the flavored variety came out later and I prescribed it, I didn't blame the kids for gagging on it.

When I went to Germany in the aftermath of World War II to help rebuild the public health structure of the country, a German doctor told me about giving cod liver oil to the children to help compensate for drastic wartime shortage of fats.

"Have to give it to them in the dispensary," he said. "If we send the bottle home, the family uses it for frying potatoes."

I guess he saw me shudder, because he gave me the German equivalent of the "don't-be-like-that" expression, and added:

"You should try them; they are delicious."

The Norse nations and other deep-sea fishermen ate the livers of the cod and other fish, and they were notable for their sturdy body structure and freedom from the bone disease rickets, commonly called rickets. Eskimos ate the whole fish, including livers.

Tropical peoples and those who lived in mild sunny localities were not prone to rickets, as were those who lived in more severe and less sunny climates. Medical research has demonstrated that the action of sunlight upon sterols (fatty substances) in the skin produces an equivalent to the cod liver oil ingredients which prevent rickets. Collectively, these are known as vitamin D. Chemically, these are sterols related to cholesterol.

It is no longer necessary to give babies and children cod liver oil as such. The anti-rachitic factor has been isolated, not only from the livers of the cod, but from those of the tuna, salmon, halibut, shark and deep-sea perch. It is producible also by irradiating yeast, milk and other sources of ergosterol. For babies, vitamin D is available in the "drops" known to every mother.

Vitamin D plays an important role in bone, tooth and other body functions in which calcium and phosphorus are concerned, including the integrity of blood, muscles and nerves. It is most important during the early years of rapid growth and development, especially in the formation of a strong and properly structured skeleton and good teeth. It is also important for pregnant women and nursing mothers.

In areas where there is a normal sunny summer and not too prolonged and severe a winter, the ordinary milk supply carries

Try Broiling Tenderloin For a Treat

Sometimes good things come in small packages, you may have heard. This is certainly true of pork tenderloin which weighs a pound or less.

This most tender and boneless section of the pork loin has often been roasted whole; it's been cut in patties and braised or two have been fashioned together with stuffing and baked.

Now, it can come to the table broiled after being cooked on an outside grill or in the range. It's delectable when treated to a brush-on sauce during the cooking for the pork takes easily to apricot nectar, ginger, soy sauce and lime juice.

This cut, the loin section, is cooked to an internal temperature of 170-degree F. whether it's just the tenderloin or whole roast. That's well-done for pork loin or tenderloin. And that's necessary for developing its flavor fully.

Pork Tenderloin, Orientale
1 tablespoon ground ginger
2 to 3 lbs. pork tenderloin
1/4 cup brown sugar
1 can (12 oz.) apricot nectar
1-3 cup soy sauce
1 tablespoon lime juice, if desired

Mix ground ginger and sugar. Add apricot nectar, soy sauce and lime juice and mix well. Place tenderloins on grill and cook slowly. Broil on one side about five minutes, turn, brush with mixture. Broil second side five minutes, turn and brush with mixture. Continue broiling, turning occasionally and brushing with mixture until done, allowing 25 to 30 minutes total cooking time. Six to eight servings.

Light Shrimp Delicacy With Big Difference

There are butterfly shrimp and butterfly shrimp — as any one who has ever patronized an Oriental restaurant can attest — but nothing like Butterfly Shrimp Aloha Nui Loah, and the unusual sauce with which it is served in Hawaii. This dish is not only prepared with much love, but served and eaten the same way.

Butterfly Shrimp
Aloha Nui Loah
(Butterfly shrimp prepared with much love)
Serves a party of 10-12
2 pounds large shrimp

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon monodisodium glutamate
2 tablespoons water
1 egg, well beaten

1 teaspoon salt
Combine all the ingredients, except the shrimp, into a batter. Split cleaned raw shrimp, with shells and veins removed, down their backs to within half an inch of their tails. Dip shrimp in the batter and drop into deep, hot fat. Cook until brown. Drain on paper towels, and serve at once with Apricot Sauce Honi.

Apricot Sauce Honi
(Apricot Kiss Sauce)
Makes about 1 pint

1/4 pound dried apricots
1 cup water
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup Hawaiian rum
1/4 cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon paprika

Cook the dried apricots in covered saucepan until soft, which usually takes about 30 minutes — when most of the water is absorbed. Pulverize the cooked apricots in an electric blender or food mill, add rest of ingredients and beat until smooth. This sauce will keep for months if properly refrigerated.

Milk Not Acid Forming

The fallacy to the effect that curdling of milk in the stomach causes sour and upset stomach continues to persist in the face of medical and nutritional refutation . . . so here once again are the facts. The curdling of milk which occurs when it is mixed with the stomach acids is a natural process of digestion and does not cause stomach upset. Moreover, milk is not an acid-forming but a base-forming (neutralizer of acid) food, reiterate nutritionists for the Dairy Council of California.

Slim Down With Milk

It pays the would-be slimmer-downer to consider carefully the advantages of milk calories versus those of other foods. Milk pays its way by coming up with generous amounts of protein, calcium and other important nutrients at a very reasonable calorie rate. An 8-ounce glass of refreshing whole milk has only 150 calories. The same amount of skim milk or buttermilk offers only 89 calories and provides all the nutrients and whole milk except the fat and vitamin A.

Next time, give Kold Kist Creamed Chicken this south of the border treatment for flavor mucho delicioso!

2 PKGS. KOLD KIST CREAMED CHICKEN
12 TORTILLAS • 1/2 CUP GRATED SWISS OR AMERICAN CHEESE

Heat Kold Kist Creamed Chicken according to package directions. Heat tortillas until soft enough to roll. Spoon chicken mixture into center of each tortilla, roll and place in a shallow baking dish. Pour remaining chicken mixture around tortillas, sprinkle with grated cheese and bake at 400° for 30 min. or until bubbly, 6 servings.

Legend has it that before the arrival of the Hawaiians, the islands were peopled by little folk called menehune—who were only as tall as your legs. It is easy to believe they concocted this exotic and delicious desert.

Pineapple Menhune (Pineapple Pixie)
Serves 5-6

4 tablespoons brown sugar
4 tablespoons ground, toasted almonds
Hawaiian rum
1 very ripe pineapple
3 egg yolks

12 tablespoons butter
Peel the pineapple and cut fruit into thin slices. Soak the slices 1 hour in 1/2 cup, or more if necessary, Hawaiian rum (residue liquid makes an excellent drink, served on the rocks). Make a sauce by stirring the egg yolks with the butter in the top of a double boiler over simmering water. When the mixture is well blended, add the sugar and 4 tablespoons Hawaiian rum and continue to stir until the sauce begins to thicken and coat the spatula. Remove from heat.

Drain the pineapple slices and arrange them on a long serving platter. Pour the sauce on the pineapple and sprinkle with almonds. Chill in the refrigerator before serving.

Pineapple Volcano is a spectacular dessert or hors d'oeuvre, which is easy to prepare and gives guests a sense of participation. It is particularly effective at a luau, barbecue or when dining outdoors, but may be served in the dining room.

Pineapple Volcano
Serves 5-6

1 fresh pineapple
1/2 cup Hawaiian rum
1/2 cup simple syrup

1 can Sterno
Skewers or fondue forks
Cut off the top of the pineapple about 5 or 6 inches from its base. With a sharp knife, remove the fruit without cutting into the rind. Cut the fruit into bite-size chunks and chill. Combine the simple syrup and Hawaiian rum into a sauce. To serve, place the can in the hollow pineapple and light. Spear pieces of pineapple, dip into the Hawaiian rum-sugar sauce and glaze over the flame in the pineapple shell.

NOTE: Simple syrup of the proper consistency for this dish may be made by adding just enough water to sugar to absorb the sugar, with a bit to spare, and heating the mixture until it melts into a rather thick syrup. HINT: To select a ripe pineapple, pull a leaf from the top. If it comes out easily, the pineapple is ready to eat. The well-developed fruit will have a comparatively small, compact leaf crown.

Versatile Veal Bakes in Loaf, Ring or Pattie

When the family wants a change from regular meat loaf, plan on making one with veal and pork.

Veal is delicately flavored. It's well used with pork which has a slightly more pronounced flavor. Bacon will add even more flavor to these two meats.

This recipe can be used in several different ways, points out a meat authority. Bake in a loaf pan or ring mold or shape and place on a rack in a shallow pan as you would a roast since that's what meat loaf really is. For an even shorter cooking time, make it in patties as suggested in the variation.

Bacon-Topped Veal Loaf

1 1/2 pounds ground veal
1/2 pound ground pork
1/2 cup coarse dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup evaporated milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 slices bacon

Combine veal, pork, bread crumbs, milk, eggs, lemon juice and seasonings. Pack into a greased 9x5-inch loaf pan. Dice bacon and place on top of loaf. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 hours. 6 to 8 servings.

Variations

Bake in a greased 1 1/2-quart ring mold in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour.

Shape meat mixture into 8 patties. Use 16 slices of bacon instead of 2. Do not chop. Lay bacon slices one across the other to form 8 crosses. Place a meat patty on the center of each cross. Shape bacon slices around patties. Place patties on a rack in an open roasting pan so that the ends of the bacon slices are underneath the patties. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes.

Barbecue Pork Chops On Rangetop

Ever wonder how we got the word, "barbecue"? One version suggests it comes from a Spanish term, barbacoa. This means an elevated frame used for certain types of outdoor roasting, as for coffee beans.

Another source suggests it comes from a French phrase, "barbe a queue," literally, "beard to tail." At the original barbecue the animal was roasted whole. Now, barbecue means roasted meat served to a gathering.

It's possible, however, to achieve a similar flavor right on range by using sauces and seasonings after meat is browned. These rib pork chops are cooked with moisture, a barbecue sauce.

Rib pork chops are those with a single, large muscle all on one side of the bone. When cut an inch thick, they make an adequate serving for the average appetite.

Barbecued Pork Chops

8 rib pork chops, cut one inch thick
Flour
1/4 cup lard
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup juice from peach, apple, bread-and-butter or sweet pickles
1 cup catsup

Dredge chops in flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Four off drippings. Add the two tablespoons flour to mustard and make paste. Add remaining ingredients, blend well and pour over chops. Cover tightly and cook slowly for one hour. Eight servings.

Pacifica Mayor Blasts D.C. Plan for Elections

Pacifica Mayor Grace McCarthy last week charged that the campaign to alter San Mateo County's Board of Supervisors elections is "an effort by a small group of Daly City politicians to boss the whole county."

Speaking at a Pacifica Chamber of Commerce luncheon, Mayor McCarthy said altering the election procedure from the present "at large" system would be "detrimental to the entire county, including Daly City."

Delegates at a North County Council of Cities meeting some time ago voted 34-4 in favor of placing the election procedure issue on the November ballot.

Millbrae Councilman James O'Connor, one of the four NCCC delegates opposed to the election change, charged at a recent charter study committee meeting that the proposal "is an attempt to get Supervisor Jean Fassler out of office."

Daly City Mayor Bernard Lyett, one of the principal backers of the proposal has denied the plan is a move to "oust" Mrs. Fassler, but is only an attempt to revamp "an outmoded system."

San Mateo County is one of only two counties in the state where the "at large" supervisor elections are held, according to Lyett.

The proposed change also has the backing of the Daly City Chamber of Commerce and other civic and government groups in the city.

The county charter study committee will hold public hearings on the proposal next month in Daly City.

Mrs. McCarthy brought the matter up Thursday during a panel discussion with Vice Mayor Harland Minshew and City Mgr. C. W. Masonheimer on the role played by private citizens in obtaining the proposed Route 106 Freeway in Pacifica and San Bruno.

Shown at left are Gil West, formerly a Spindrift and Sybil Devore of the Players as they talk over the Picnic script with the Players' president Charlene Amick. In the coming production West will play the role of "Howard" and Mrs. Devore will be stage-managing as well as assisting new director Margo Lungreen who has appeared on Broadway and organized theater groups in New York and Oregon.

Augustina Repatto and Henry Pasterine had filed the application.

The planning commission was directed to prepare an ordinance amendment for council consideration on proposed reduction in front setbacks for private garages or carports.

Councilmen also directed City Mgr. C. W. Masonheimer to call for bids on a new street sweeper.

A map detailing plans for improvement of the San Pedro Road and State Highway 1 was received and reviewed by the councilman.

City Manager Masonheimer was granted permission to be absent from the city October 7-16.

Citizen Band Radios Stolen

A rash of car burglaries plagued San Bruno police last Tuesday.

In all cases the items stolen were citizen band car radios, police said.

Charles W. Sexton, of 1144 Montgomery Avenue reported two cars parked in front of his home were broken into and citizen band radios stolen. Combined value of the sets was estimated at $520.

Joseph S. Desoto's car was likewise broken into and a citizen band radio stolen while the vehicle was parked in front of his Seventh Avenue home. Value of the set was some $203, Desoto told police.

A guitar and related electronic equipment, along with a citizen band radio, was stolen from the Frank E. Polivka car while it was parked overnight in front of his home at 40 Atlantic Avenue, police said.

Total value of the stolen items was $734.

A Daly City Title For Eddie Albert

Television personality Eddie Albert will be named as the Honorary Mayor of Daly City during the upcoming Grand National Livestock Exposition at the Cow Palace next month.

In making the announcement yesterday, Daly City Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lyeett said Albert, star of the popular TV series, "Green Acres," will appear in person with comic Pat Buttram on October 30 — Daly City Night at the Grand National.

The Daly City council and Cow Palace Board of Directors decided to set aside a night for the city following a series of talks on the matter.

"This is the first year the Grand National will honor Daly City with its own night," councilman Tony Giammona, chairman of the show committee, pointed out.

Mayor Lyeett was expected to issue a proclamation regarding the special night and urging all local citizens to attend the event.

In order to encourage Daly City families to attend this special night, the Cow Palace management will issue discount coupons.

The coupons, which may be obtained at the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce office, various stores, banks and at this newspaper's Park Plaza offices, allow a reduction of $1 on each ticket purchased.

More than 17,000 such coupons will be available, according to Giammona.

Along with Albert and Buttram, the orchestra of Ray Hackett will feature several musical numbers dedicated to Daly City.

Sandra Tate, this year's Miss Daly City, the Kalico Kats — a square dance group — and the Community Chorus will be added to the show's regular program.

A rodeo with the nation's top cowboys and a full classification horse show, featuring the world's championship jumper sweepstakes will be other arena attractions during the show's ten-day run from October 27 through November 5.

$300 Stolen In Burglary

More than $300 was taken from the Taco Bell on El Camino Real in San Bruno in a burglary last Tuesday, police reported today.

Officers said the restaurant was broken into between midnight and 4 a.m. Wednesday, and $344 was taken from a cash box.

Entrance was gained through forcing a rear door.

In another burglary Wednesday, $75 in quarters was taken from the Glenview Drive residence of John F. Benedict.

Entrance to the home was gained through forcing a rear window.

About $134 was also taken from the Rollinwood Drive home of one B. Persing sometime while the family was away on vacation last week, police said.

Scavengers Drop Legal Suit

A $4,930,171 lawsuit against the city of Brisbane was dropped by the three garbage collection companies involved. The suit was dropped prior to a major vote October 17 at which time residents will ballot on whether or not to grant the garbage companies a five year contract with the city at $100,000. A statement by John Mos-cone, president of Sanitary Fill Company was: "Sanitary Fill Company, Golden Gate Disposal Company and Sunset Scavenger Company today have instructed their attorneys to drop the $4,930,171 lawsuit we have filed against the City of Brisbane.

Sanitary Fill and Brisbane have been in the courts now for over two years and this suit was related to those proceedings. Our attorneys filed it at this time merely to protect our legal rights under the statute of limitations.

As usual, our opponents in Brisbane have twisted the truth and distorted the fact by charging that the suit was filed as a threat to the voters and a hammer over your head.

Their charge is as false as the rest of the irresponsible statements they have made over the past several years.

The people of Brisbane have before them on October 17 a proposal which we think is as good for Brisbane as it is for our companies. It is simple and clear and deserves to be voted upon on its merits alone.

To make sure that the air is clear and that there are no misunderstandings to cloud the issue, we are dropping the suit.

This means that we are giving up forever our right to this claim for damages and the $50,000 in legal fees we have paid to protect our rights as businessmen no matter what happens on October 17.

We are dropping this claim to prove once and for all our faith and confidence in the people of Brisbane and to demonstrate once more that we are good neighbors and corporate members of the community.

In that same spirit we ask that you vote YES when you go to the polls on October 17, and permit us to work with you toward building an even better community."

Brisbane Sets City Meets

Brisbane City Council, planning commission and park, beach and recreation commission meetings will be held in the Brisbane Elementary School lunch room beginning next week, City Mgr. Lanier Brady announced today.

The council and commission meetings were previously held at the Natalie M. Lipman School.

7 Join Faculty At Westmoor

Westmoor High School in Daly City has added seven members to its staff this semester.

They include Mrs. Diane Abraham, physical education; Miss Eileen Denson, English; Miss Menetta Williams, English; Miss Judy Forcada, mathematics; Mr. Jim Leir, industrial arts; Mr. David Lica, mathematics; and Mr. Roger Selsback, business.

A graduate of Notre Dame, Miss Eileen Denson instructs freshmen in English and English literature. This is her second semester of teaching, her previous post was teaching in the English department at Washington High School in San Francisco.

Mrs. Diane Abraham, new to the physical education department at Westmoor, has taught in the Jefferson Union High School District since 1962. She is a graduate of San Francisco State and will be working mostly in the area of modern dance.

Another district transfer is Mrs. Benetta Williams, who previously taught at Jefferson High School in Daly City. Having taken her training at U.S.F. Mrs. Williams has taught for two years. She taught summer school at the Westmoor plant this summer.

David Lew, a graduate of Chico State, teaches basic math, survey of math, and geometry. Eight years of experience at Castlemont High School and Oakland High School preceded his mathematics post at Westmoor.

Another new instructor in the mathematics department is Miss Judy Forcada, an internship program from the University of California at Berkeley.

Lake Anne Village, one of the component suburban communities in the "new town" of Reston, Va., is completely air-conditioned. Cold water, which does the cooling, circulates to each home from a central refrigerating system.

ACCEPTING reservations for "El Cuore della Moda," Mary's Help Hospital Guild's fashion luncheon are Mrs. Andrew Ray Ryan (931-1475), reservations chairman, and Mrs. Frank Lawson (right), investments chairman. Event will be October 18 in Venetian Room of Fairmont Hotel. (Chas. Blagdon Photo.)

S.S.F. Police Seek Boost On Overtime

South San Francisco policemen resubmitted a request for time-and-a-half pay for overtime work this week, after Mayor Patrick Ahern noted councilmen "overlooked" the matter in preparing the 1967-68 budget.

Police Lt. David Casey, chairman of the department's Wage Committee, pointed out in a letter to the council Friday that South San Francisco and San Bruno are the only cities in San Mateo County where sworn officers do not receive time-and-a-half for overtime work.

"Also, South San Francisco is the only city where non-sworn personnel do not receive time-and-a-half for overtime," the letter states.

City administrative assistant Jim Sargent said Friday the council will meet with police representatives in a special study session to discuss the overtime pay proposal "in the near future."

Sargent said an overtime pay arrangement as proposed by policemen would cost the city

"about $17,000 per year."

He said some sort of adjustment will probably be made, "but I would not speculate on the exact arrangements."

In the letter to councilmen, Lt. Casey states that "the unique character of the police function requires that time be spent in the service of the city beyond the normal work week requirements."

"Since it is impossible to eliminate overtime for the police function, police personnel should be adequately reimbursed for extra time required away from home and family."

Casey praised the council for approving "an equitable formula" for police pay outside the overtime issue, but said this "inequity places the South San Francisco Police Department below the projected comparative levels."

The new budget approved by the council provides a five per cent pay increase and new retirement benefits for police employees.

Bar is Hailed For Guidelines

In an unusual motion Monday the Daly City Council commended the American Bar Association for their efforts in establishing a set of guidelines concerning the duties of American citizens.

Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett said the council has discussed an article appearing in a statewide utility newsletter, titled, "Canons of American Citizenship," and "discovered that they apply to all of us in these troubled times."

"One of these 'canons' seems to strike an appropriate note, that is the one which points out the fact that responsibilities are as important as rights in the reservation of our freedom and justice," Lycett said.

"This should be brought home more forcibly and perhaps then we will have a better world to live in," he said.

In a resolution, the council unanimously agreed the ten "canons" should be brought to the attention of all Americans.

The resolution read: WHEREAS, at the present time it has become too easy for people to lose sight of the fact that the freedoms we have today have been obtained through the untiring and inspired leadership of those who have gone before, and

WHEREAS, many times today we overlook the admonition that righteous goals should be obtained by righteous means, and

WHEREAS, democracy is not only a gift to all people, but also requires corresponding duties on the part of its citizens, and

WHEREAS, to help focus attention on the American Constitution, the American Bar Association every September 17th, sponsors the observance of Constitution Day, and

WHEREAS, in connection with said observance, the American Bar Association has drafted a set of guidelines concerning the duties of every American citizen, which read as follows:

Every American citizen should recognize the duty to:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the City Council of the City of Daly City that on behalf of itself and of the citizens of the City of Daly City, it does hereby commend the American Bar Association for its "Canons of Duties" of an American Citizen, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, by the City Council of the City of Daly City, that it does subscribe to said "Canons of Duties" and commends same to all citizens as a guide to continuing Democracy in our country.

1. Uphold the laws of the United States, and the state and communities.

2. Defend our country from invasion and our government from overthrow by force, violence, or subversion.

3. Encourage respect for law and order and insist upon solution of differences and grievances by processes of law and never by resort to violence or other unlawful means.

4. Support those charged with the enforcement and administration of our laws; voluntarily act as a witness and serve as a juror.

5. Harbor no prejudice against anyone because of race, religion or national origin.

6. Maintain pride in family, heritage and church as well as in community, state and nation.

7. Keep informed on issues and candidates, and vote in every election.

8. Respect the rights and opinions of others.

9. Participate in religious, charitable, civic, educational or other activities to promote the welfare of the community.

10. Acknowledge that "responsibilities" are as important as "rights" in the preservation of freedom and justice.

Top Priority For Signals

South San Francisco city officials and Westborough developer Thomas Callan agreed to assign "top priority" to completion of a traffic signal system at the intersection of Westborough Boulevard and Callan Boulevard Monday.

The developer and city representatives promised to arrange for construction of the signal system before other street improvements in the area are undertaken, after representatives of the Westborough Homeowners' Association warned of danger to school children using the crossing.

Church at D.C. Sponsors Series

A series of discussions of the Catholic faith in the spirit of recent church developments is scheduled at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, 80 Welling Avenue, Daly City, starting September 25, at 8 p.m. in the school hall.

Father George Kutches, assistant pastor, will be the main speaker for the series, entitled "Religion and the Modern Man."

Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Bergin, pastor, is director of the series. Topics to be discussed include the Bible, Protestant-Catholic dialog, family and marriage, changes in worship and government, the Second Vatican Council, and the "death of God" theology.

"The series is part of the world-wide attempt at respect, unity and dialog among various religious groups," explains Father Kutches.

For those unable to attend on Monday, each week's class is repeated on Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. There is no fee or obligation. For further information, call 755-2377.

"DENTAL HEALTH FACTS"

Small cavities in the teeth can be filled more easily and with less discomfort than large ones. If decay is neglected it leads to infection and abscess formation. An infected tooth is a hazard to good health and often must be removed. A tooth that has been lost should be replaced by an artificial one. If it is not, the other teeth will shift. This shifting may lead to more decay and to diseases of the gums. Irregular placement of the teeth should be corrected for many reasons: To improve appearance, speech, and the ability to chew foods and to help prevent other dental diseases. Have your dentist check for cavities and follow his recommendations if treatment is needed.

Dr. Campbell tries to limit his practice to the making of dental plates, partial plates, removable bridges and extractions for same; however, he recommends that you see your dentist at least twice a year in order to help prevent the use of your natural teeth. Dentures are not as efficient as healthy, natural teeth.

TRASH AND CASH are related items for Henry D. Hermes of South San Francisco, a materials transportation foreman in Pacific Gas and Electric Company's San Francisco Division. Hermes proposed remodeling one of the company's large flat bed trucks to handle large boxes of trash collected throughout the division. His idea was checked out by PG&E's suggestion award program, which decided on an award in excess of $1,000 based on cost savings and greater efficiency. Hermes's trash-handling system replaces three vehicles with one. On hand for the presentation of the suggestion was Richard K. Miller, San Francisco Division Manager.
